LOWELL HIGH SCHOOL REGIMENT HOLDS ANNUAL FIELD DAY TOMORROW AFTERNOON

LOWELL HIGH SCHOOL REGIMENT ON PARADE ON SOUTH COMMON

The annual field day of the Lowell High School Regiment and the girls' battalions will be held tomorrow afternoon at Spalding Park. The arrangements for the event were completed today, and those in charge are confident that the attendance will be the largest in the history of the history of the school. The drill will be held at Spalding Park and will start at 2 o'clock. The gates will be open at 1 o'clock and there will be no admission charged, the public being cordially invited to attend.

The official arrangements include the assembly of all at the school at the usual time. In the event of the weather being unfavorable the regular school session will be held. If the day is pleasant school will be dismissed. The members of the regiment will assemble at the annex at 12:30 o'clock. After formation the march to the grounds will start at 1 o'clock. The procession will be headed by the Lowell Cadet band and will march from the annex to Merrimack Street, to Central, to Church, to High, to Rogers and to the park.

Upon the arrival of all at the drill grounds they will immediately take their positions and the first event will take place. During the drilling music will be furnished. The Cadet band will play for the boys, while Shesban's orchestra will supply the music for the girls.

The girls will ride to the grounds and will arrive there about the same time as the boys. The final practice for the exhibitions were held today.

One of the features in connection with the annual field day is the official program, arranged and edited by pupils of the school. This year's program is one of the prettiest ever published.

The cover is of race beauty and is a pen and ink drawing of a boy in full regiments and a young lady attired in drilling uniform and holding an Indian club. It also gives the anouncement of the meet. It is the work of Nelson Chase '13.

There is a list of the day's events, the roster of the regiment and battalions, a score card, list of last year's prizes and pictures of the officers, individually and collectively. The editors of the souvenir are Cadet Capt. Wallace T. Safford, Cadet Captain Adjutant Loring R. Kew and Cadet Lieut. Leonard C. Dursthoff.

The official program and roster for tomorrow follow:

Assemble 12:30 p.m., Armory at Annex.
March to Spalding Park at 1 p.m., Individual Prize Drill—Boys, Wand Drill—2d Battalion—Girls, (a) Butt's Manual—1st Battalion—Boys.

TWO SESSIONS HELD OF PROBATE COURT

At the Local Court House Today

WILL OF EDNA C. RICE CONTESTED

Several Wills in Uncontested Session

Two sessions of the probate court were held this morning, the contested presided over by Judge Lawton and the uncontested in the care of Judge McIntire.

The most important case in the contested session and one which took the largest part of the court's time was that of the will of the late Edna C. Rice, which is being contested by about 17 legal heirs.

As far as could be learned Edna C. Rice left in her original will the bulk of her property to her sister, Helen F. Rice, who later died, $1,000 to St. Paul's church, $5,000 to Edward S. Husner and wife and the residue to the Lowell Humane Society and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the former to have one-third and the latter two-thirds. Later Miss Rice made another will revoking the Husner clause and leaving in trust to William T. Shepard $10,000, the income to be paid to Mr. and Mrs. Husner during their lives and after their death to be turned over to the residuary legatee.

The will is being contested by about 17 relatives of deceased.

James E. O'Donnell as administrator for the will of the late James McNabb, petitioned the court to erect a tombstone on the grave of the late James McNabb in St. Patrick's cemetery. The respondents were three sisters of deceased who are heirs to his property, while another sister in whose lot deceased was buried favored the petition. William A. Hogan, in behalf of the three heirs opposed the petition, while Judge Frederick Fisher favored it. It seems that the late James McNabb was buried in his sister's lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, while his wife owned a lot in the same cemetery.

The respondents are in favor of erecting a tombstone but on the lot owned by deceased and not where he is buried.

The following wills were presented in the uncontested session: Agnes C. Redhead, Lowell; Franklin Nickerson, Lowell; John H. Dunn, Lowell; William Hogan, Chelmsford; Harriet M. Ellington, Chelmsford; Fannie D. Recker, Chelmsford; May Murphy, Chelmsford; John O. Gullin, Chelmsford; James A. McQuade, Chelmsford; Maria Green, Cambridge.

The administrations granted were the following: Edwidge Chaput, Lowell; Cecilia J. Frost, Lowell; Alfred Gundron, Lowell; Daniel A. O'Hearn, Lowell.

THE STREET RAILWAY CO.

Asks Permission to Relocate Tracks

The Bay State Street railway is seeking permission to make important changes in its tracks and an order was presented at the meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon asking that the company be given a hearing on a petition dated May 14, 1912. The order reads, in part, as follows: "That the requirements as to Pawtucket and Bridge streets be changed so that the space between the inner rails of the tracks shall be four feet, six inches, with such additional width in connecting, and other curves, as safety may require, and to the satisfaction of the city engineer and superintendent of streets and the approval of the board of railroad commissioners." The company wants permission to relocate its tracks in Pine street from Liberty street to Stevens street, and to construct a turnout between Wilder and Stevens street on Pine street; to extend its present turnout on Church street 100 feet easterly, and to relocate its present turnout on Lawrence street near Watson street, at a point about 300 feet southerly from its present location.

RICHESON PAYS DEATH PENALTY

AT THE STATE PRISON TODAY

WAS RESIGNED TO FATE

BOSTON, May 21.—Clarence V. T. Richeson went to his death in the electric chair at the Charlestown state prison early this morning and paid the last penalty for the murder of Avis Linnele like a man.

It was a tragic but none the less remarkable contrast to his ill-spent life. Three shocks were necessary before the self-confessed poisoner was officially pronounced dead.

His last words were in response to a question from the Rev. Herbert Johnson: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?"

With clear and distinct enunciation Richeson answered:

"I am willing to live or die."

The last of the sentence was cut off by the fatal current.

Richeson was calm and almost supernaturally collected up to the very last. Even after the rubber mask-like head piece was placed over his face, leaving only his mouth uncovered, he continued to reply to the examinations of Mr. Johnson, his spiritual adviser throughout his long period of agony and despair.

It was 12:10 A.M. when the electrician, behind a screen to the left of the death chair, threw the switch that meant death to the condemned man. As the electricity flashed through the body, he stiffened and lurched forward.

Again and again the current was turned on and then it was decided life was extinct.

Strains of Hymn

In his last moments Richeson revealed a courage which was a surprise to all who have known him during the days that preceded the execution. He entered the death cell without a tremor. His tall figure was slightly stooped, but his step was firm and did not falter.

Just before the door behind the chair was swing open the witnesses awaiting in the death chamber were startled by the strains of a hymn.

which three voices were lifted up together.

"Safe in the Arms of Jesus," rose the strains of the song in which the full, clear voice of the prisoner could be distinguished above the others. While those in the death chamber sat in awed silence, the verses were intoned almost triumphantly to the end and then proceeded by Mr. Johnson and Chaplain Stebbins, and with prison guards on either side. Richeson appeared in the doorway and was led to the chair.

He seemed to realize all that was going on about him but his eyes remained fixed over the head of the row of witnesses before him.

While the guards were adjusting the straps of the chair about his body the condemned man continued to talk with Mr. Johnson.

Death Warrant Read

At midnight drew near all was in readiness for the last tragic scene in the eventful life of the condemned. The witnesses had arrived and had been escorted to the parlor of the warden's house where they were met by Warden Benjamin F. Bridges and Nathan D. Allen, deputy warden.

As the law permitted they were eight in number, including three physicians, the so-called legal witnesses; a clergyman, a representative of the sheriff of Suffolk county and three newspaper men.

At the same time was read the warrant of execution, and the hands of the warden and his deputy were bound with a cord which runs parallel to the corridor wall of the building.

No word was spoken; only the muffled fall of footsteps upon the walk broke the silence.

At the end of the passage a massive iron door blocked the way and the party halted for a moment. It was a moment trying to the nerves of the strongest. Then Warden Bridges raised the gilded-headed cane which is the traditional insignia of his office on such occasions, and rapped deliberately upon the metal panel.

Message of Doom

Outside the sound jarred through the echoing corridor. The tap-tapping in the stillness became frantic with an ominous meaning. The insignificant had again taken on a horrible significance. Within the coil room the tapping must have reached the strident ears of the prisoner as he waited. To him it bore the message of doom irrevocable.

Only a few seconds elapsed and then a prison guard swung back the door and the witnesses found themselves in a second narrow corridor which passes to the left and in the rear of the three death cells. A wall cuts the passage off from the cells but the shuffling of the feet of the forty might have been heard by the condemned.

At the end of the second passage the witnesses emerged into a large par-

M. T. I. BACHELOR GIRLS

The M. T. I. Bachelor Girls are making final preparations for their new musical revue which will produce next Friday evening, May 24, in Associate hall.

Many requests have been received from those who witnessed the last performance of the girls for a repetition of their very successful musicals and the girls have decided to please their many friends once more before the season closes.

The stage setting which was a marvel of beauty in stagercraft and was considered the best stage setting ever put on by amateurs in this city will again be a feature.

The girls are rehearsing nightly for this new musical song revue, for all new songs and dances will be used in this production, songs that will be sung and whistled during the summer season.

So come and be the first to hear the new song hits of 1912 by the Bachelor Girls.

Flagged Train With Shirt
Tearing his shirt from his back an Ohio man flagged a train and saved it from a wreck, but H. T. Alston, Raleigh, N. C., once prevented a wreck with electric batters. "I was in a terrible plight when I began to use them, but I took hold of the platform hook, took hold of the batters and all badly affected, and my liver was in bad condition, but four bottles of electric batters made me feel like a new man."

THE STORY OF THE CRIME THAT RICHESON COMMITTED

Avis Linnell Came to Her Death by Taking Poison That He Gave Her

BOSTON, May 21.—The crime for which Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson, at the time of his arrest pastor of the Immanuel church of Cambridge, was sentenced to die in the electric chair, was the confessed murder of his former sweetheart, 19 years old Avis Linnell, of Hyannis, a pupil in the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

The girl stood in the way of the minister's marriage to Miss Violet Edmonds, a society girl and heiress of Brookline, both through an engagement which still existed between the young minister's impetuous manner and his violent language. There was also a question as to the loss of $500 in money which had been left by a parishioner in the pastor's study. The minister declared he had been robbed of the money. Shortly afterwards it was learned he had sent a similar sum by money order from a nearby town to a woman in Salt Lake City, Utah. His resignation followed and he accepted a call to the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge.

When Richeson went to Cambridge he stood in the way of the minister's marriage to Miss Linnell, which she believed would remedy that condition and in her room at the Young Women's Christian Association, on the evening of October 14, 1912. On that day invitations had been issued for the wedding ceremony that was to unite Rev. Mr. Richeson and Miss Edmonds.

As pastor of a small church in the Cape Cod town of Hyannis two years before, the handsome and eloquent minister, then 32 years old, had been attracted to Avis Linnell, who was an exceptionally pretty girl of 17 years. She lived with her parents, her father, Edgar Linnell, being a contractor and builder. It was her ambition to be come a teacher and she was attending the state normal school at Hyannis.

Joined the Church

Miss Linnell joined Richeson's church, was baptized by him and became a member of the church choir.

In a short time, early in 1909, Miss Linnell was displaying a diamond ring and confided in her girl friends that she was to be married to the minister, the following October.

Abandoning her plan of becoming a school teacher, Miss Linnell began preparations for her wedding. Some of her trousseau was completed and the two paid a visit to Rev. Edward S. Cotton of Brewster, who was asked to officiate at the ceremony.

Fiction developed between Richeson and his deacons in June 1910 over the young minister's impetuous manner and his violent language. There was also a question as to the loss of $500 in money which had been left by a parishioner in the pastor's study.

The minister declared he had been robbed of the money. Shortly afterwards it was learned he had sent a similar sum by money order from a nearby town to a woman in Salt Lake City, Utah. His resignation followed and he accepted a call to the Immanuel Baptist church of Cambridge.

When Richeson went to Cambridge

Miss Linnell went to the Conservatory of Music in Boston. She was induced to attend the conservatory by the minister in the idea that by the cultivation of her voice, which had given signs of much promise in the Hyannis church choir, she would better fit herself to become his wife. On the minister's recommendation the girl took a room at the Young Women's Christian Association quarters on Washington street, Boston. She proved a diligent student and continued her church work by teaching in the Sunday school of Tremont Temple, the leading Baptist church of the city. There were frequent meetings between Miss Linnell and Richeson.

Courted Miss Edmonds

The successes which the young preacher attained in his larger sphere of usefulness made a marked impression upon him. Surrounded by influential friends and associates his ambitions widened. He began to pay court to Miss Violet Edmonds of Brookline, the daughter of Moses Grant Edmonds, a prominent Baptist layman and trustee of the Newton Theological seminary, from which Richeson had been graduated. Miss Edmonds was prominent socially and were wealthy in her own right, as well as entitled to share in the estate of some $80,000 left by her grandfather. Entrance to the exclusive home of the Edmonds had been easy to the minister, as the pastor of the church the family attended, and in a short time he was accepted as suitor for the daughter's hand.

At the same time Richeson was meeting Miss Linnell as formerly. But one day he borrowed the diamond ring he had given her, on the pretext that the stone needed resetting. He did not return it. Eventually the newspapers announced the engagement of Rev. Mr. Richeson and Miss Violet Edmonds. The Linnell family demanded an explanation. The minister promptly declared the story a "news paper fake" and was believed.

The invitations to the wedding of Richeson and Miss Edmonds were sent out the afternoon of Saturday, October 14. That same afternoon Richeson dined with Avis Linnell at a little restaurant in the Back Bay. While there the girl appeared depressed. At times tears rolled down her cheeks. When she returned to her lodgings place, however, she seemed cheerful, although quickly excusing herself and hurrying away to her room.

Groans Were Heard

Groans were heard coming from a bathroom of the association quarters shortly after 7 o'clock that evening. The door was broken in and Miss Linnell was found partially unconscious and apparently in great agony. Half an hour later she died without regaining consciousness.

A belief that the girl had committed suicide was at first general, but her family were disposed to discredit the report, and a thorough investigation was made.

Soon after the girl died, it was learned, that someone had telephoned to Richeson, as the girl's nearest friend, and informed him of the circumstances. He coldly denied at first that he knew the girl at all. Then finally admitting that she had been a member of his former parish in Hyannis, he suggested that her brother-in-law in Bridgewater be notified. Before hanging up the receiver he asked: "Did she say anything before she died?"

The theory of suicide was dispelled when the real conditions surrounding the death of Miss Linnell were made known. The girl had been sitting in a chair with her feet in a tub of hot water while beside her was a fresh change of clothing. The autopsy revealed the fact that she had taken a dose of poison and the conclusion was drawn that she had done so in the innocent belief that it would remedy a condition that later would be a cause of great embarrassment.

On the day following the girl's death Rev. Mr. Richeson preached what was to be his last sermon in the Cambridge church, and in his prayer referred briefly to the death of a near friend. That afternoon, dining with a member of his parish in Somerville, he was able to eat but little and spent much time on a couch in apparent mental misery. He explained that he was overcome by the recent death of a "dear friend." That night he went to the home of Moses Grant Edmonds in Brookline, father of the girl to whom he was to be married a week or so later, and there remained in seclusion through the next few days preceding his arrest.

Scores of police and newspaper men took up the mystery of the death of Avis Linnell. It seemed apparent at the outset that the belief in a suicide theory was one which the murderer had planned to foster. Given the crime and the reason for it the next step was to find the man responsible for the condition of the victim. The police had not far to seek and the newspapers made no pretence at mystery in directing their suspicions. The girl had but one sweetheart and she made no concealment of her affection for Richeson.

Evidence Accumulates

In a week's time material evidence began to accumulate. A woman declared that Richeson had telephoned from her home making an appointment for the afternoon of October 14 with someone at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms. Richeson's landlady admitted her boarder had returned a bowl to her with the remark that she had better wash it thoroughly as it had been used to mix paste which had contained poison. The most damaging evidence, however, came from Wm. Hahn, a druggist of Newton Centre and a friend of Richeson, who was weeping hysterically. "Do not worry," he said, "everything will come out all right." The minister came out of the house in the murky dawn, passing between two rows of police, newspaper men, and curious neighbors and was taken to police headquarters in Boston in a taxi cab to be arraigned. The case was set for October 31 for a hearing and Richeson was committed to the Charles Street jail without bail. Within a few days the wedding invitations of the minister and Miss Edmonds, summoning the guests to the Edmonds home on October 31, were recalled.

The weary vigil was kept up until daylight when a maid who appeared in the kitchen was prevailed upon to notify Mr. Edmonds that the officers were outside and would break in if the door was not opened at once. At 7 o'clock the police were admitted. Richeson was found in bed. He was ordered to dress and accompany the officers. Before leaving the house he took in his arms Miss Violet Edmonds, who was weeping hysterically. "Do not worry," he said, "everything will come out all right." The minister came out of the house in the murky dawn, passing between two rows of police, newspaper men, and curious neighbors and was taken to police headquarters in Boston in a taxi cab to be arraigned.

The case was set for October 31 for a hearing and Richeson was committed to the Charles Street jail without bail.

Within a few days the wedding invitations of the minister and Miss Edmonds, summoning the guests to the Edmonds home on October 31, were recalled.

Before the day of the hearing arrived a special session of the grand jury was called and an indictment charging murder in five counts was found. Richeson was taken into court to plead to the charge of murder on the day he was to have been married to Miss Edmonds. The trial of the case was set for January 15.

Richeson had early written to his church asking that judgment be suspended until after the grand jury sitting. On November 1st he forwarded his resignation, but the church on November 6, after a stormy meeting, refused to accept it. Later a second letter of resignation was sent and accepted on November 24.

The police had even at this time far from a satisfactory case against Richeson. The container of the poison which Miss Linnell had taken could not be found. It was believed some vial or box might have been left in the pocket of Miss Linnell's bathrobe, which had been buried with her. The body was disinterred in Hyannis on October 24 and brought to Boston for a post mortem examination by five prominent physicians. The cause of death was confirmed but no additional evidence was found.

At the same time the police began an investigation into the life of Richeson. Every important act of his life from the date of his birth at Rose Hill, Va., 25 years ago, until his advent in Cambridge was gone into. It was found that he went to school early at Amherst courthouse, Va., high school, then went to Carrollton, Va., to work for a brother and attend a local academy. Three years later he went to Liberty, Mo., and entered William Jewell College to study for the ministry. While a student he supplied patients in Kansas City, Mo., Stewartsville, Miss., El Paso, Tex., Louisville, Ky., and other places.

Richeson's life had not been an undisturbed one. It was learned, and many tales were related of his entanglements with young women. At Liberty, Mo., while in William Jewell college, he had been engaged to the daughter of a professor. The young woman lent Richeson money to pursue his studies and up to the time of his coming to Hyannis believed she was to be his wife. In the meantime she developed tuberculosis, which still necessitates her remaining in Salt Lake City, Utah. The one bright ray of light in Richeson's career appeared to be that he repaid the money loaned him as fast as possible. The final amounts were sent from Hyannis shortly before he came to Cambridge.

Expelled From College

Richeson was expelled from William Jewell college for cheating in examinations shortly after he had been ordained at the First Baptist church in St. Louis. For a time he worked as a conductor on the street cars of the latter city and was prominent in a tribe of street car men, his fiery eloquence making him a natural leader. While at Old Park Baptist church in Kansas City, Richeson became involved with a widow. One Sunday she appeared unexpectedly during the church service. Richeson, upon seeing her, fell in a faint. A brother of the woman called at Richeson's rooms and the young minister left town suddenly. A note to the deacons explained that he had been driven away by three jealous women.

At another church three young women interrupted the service one Sunday. Simultaneously rising each inquired of the minister if he intended to carry out his promise to marry her. The sensation led the deacons of the church to write for the pastor's resignation.

Richeson entered Newton Theological seminary in the fall of 1906 and graduated in 1909. During his course he earned money by working in restaurants and shoe stores. He was called to the Hyannis church in 1909 and remained there until June, 1910, when he resigned to accept the pastorate of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge. Rumors of his interest in women while a preacher in Massachusetts have been current. Miss Edmonds upon the arrest of her fiance, left Cambridge to escape publicly and it is said, has been engaged in charity work.

Interest in the case was intensified on December 20 when it became known that Richeson had mutilated himself in his cell at the Charles street jail. The public apparently lost all sympathy for the prisoner following his strange act, which was interpreted as a confession of guilt. At Hyannis, the home of Avis Linnell, the minister was hung in effigy, with a placard on the dummy reading "Guilty. Read Luke 17:22." In Boston a conference of Baptist ministers was called and Richeson was formally deprived of his title of reverend.

Richeson confessed his guilt in a statement written by himself on January 3 and given out by his counsel on January 6. The confession was addressed to his counsel and read:

"Deeply penitent before my sins, and earnestly desiring as far as in my power lies, to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted. I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit of leniency. Ileious as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however depraved and blighted, will not admit of my still further wrongdoing by a public trial of his pure young life I have destroyed."

"Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mortal anguish I recognize there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some man's walls I might, in some small measure redeem my sinful past, help some despairing soul, and at last find favor with my God."

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court. Sheerly yours, Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Richeson was taken into court on January 9, pleaded guilty of the murder of Avis Linnell and was sentenced to be electrocuted at the Charles street jail in the week beginning May 19.

A negro murderer, Henry H. Bults, has been the constant companion of Richeson since his act of self-mutilation. The negro has taken a certain pride in serving Richeson, who has become so attached to the attentions of Bults that the negro has been allowed to remain, although his crime calls for imprisonment at Charlestown.

The counsel for the condemned man bent their efforts during the past few weeks to securing support for a petition for a commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. The ground alleged is insanity due to abnormal traits, which according to the lawyers would not constitute legal insanity, but have a unique character of their own warranting clemency.

Richeson, on April 26, sent a petition for commutation of sentence to Gov. Foss. It read:

"I respectfully request that the sentence of death pronounced against me by the superior court for the County of Suffolk be commuted to imprisonment for life, and I leave the presentation of this request and the reasons in support thereof, with my counsel Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Simultaneously with the presentation of the petition, Counsel William A. Morse and Philip R. Dunbar of Boston, and John L. Lee, of Lynchburg, Va., filed numerous depositions relating to evidences of insanity on the part of members of the Richeson

THE BODY OF RICHESON CLAIMED BY HIS BROTHER

The Burial Will Take Place in Virginia—Services Will be Conducted by Boston Pastor

BOSTON, May 21.—Douglas Richeson of Chicago, brother of the former clergyman Clarence V. T. Richeson who paid the penalty for the murder of Avis Linnell in the electric chair at the state prison just after midnight, claimed the body today. Before the remains could be turned over to relatives it was necessary that Dr. McGrath, medical examiner of Suffolk county, perform an autopsy as provided by law. This he planned to do during the forenoon at the county morgue, where the body was taken after the electrocution.

Reports that the brain and other organs of the executed man might be given to medical institutions and medical specialists for examination and study were denied yesterday by Dr. McGrath. The law requires that an autopsy be performed on the remains of all persons who die in the electric chair but further than to carry on the legal provisions the remains will not be disturbed by the surgeon's knife, Dr. McGrath said.

Richeson's body will be taken back to his old home in Virginia, if his wishes are carried out and will be buried in the little cemetery on Richeson mountain in the town of Amherst Courthouse. The last words as the remains are committed to the grave will be said by the Rev. Herbert Johnson of Boston who acted as Richeson's spiritual adviser and who was with the condemned man to the very end. One of the last requests made by Richeson was that Mr. Johnson deposit the body to Virginia and this the clergyman consented to do.

When he goes south Mr. Johnson will have a double mission to perform. He will not only go for the purpose of reading the commitment service but he will also carry the last message from the executed murderer to his beloved sons at his former home.

No relative had seen the condemned man after he entered the state prison but Richeson bore them in ill will, for himself, while anxious to see his brother and sister who were in Boston during the time, advised against their visiting the death house.

"I am afraid the shock will be too great, I fear the memory would always linger with them," he told the Rev. Mr. Johnson the day before the execution.

Both the Rev. Mr. Johnson and William A. Morse, Richeson's attorney, had numerous missions to perform today. Richeson left no will in conversations with them men during the hours preceding his death. He gave directions as to the disposition of his personal effects and asked Mr. Johnson and Mr. Morse to carry them out. In the library, Richeson left no clergyman friends and other articles of a similar nature to others. Richeson left no public statement. He did, however, have a personal communication for his spiritual adviser. This was handed to Mr. Johnson after the electrocution and the latter has not seen fit to make any of its contents public. During the days preceding the electrocution Richeson had discussed the details of the murder of Avis Linnell, the Hyannis high school student, with the Rev. Mr. John-

BOSTON'S MAYOR HAD A VERY NARROW ESCAPE FROM INJURY

BOSTON, May 21.—Mayor Fitzgerald narrowly escaped serious injury last evening when his automobile collided with another machine at the corner of New Heath street and Columbus avenue, Roxbury, at 8:30 o'clock. The headlight of the mayor's machine was broken as was also the rear lamp of the machine when the cars struck.

The mayor was coming out of Columbus avenue according to eye witnesses, when an automobile driven by Robert Sampson, and reported owned by William Cousins of 312 Hanover street, Roxbury, coming in Columbus avenue, attempted to turn up New Heath street, resulting in a head-on collision with the mayor's machine.

The fact that both automobiles were going at a reduced rate of speed prevented any serious injury to the occupants. The car driven by Sampson had one of its front lights broken and an axle sprung.

son but the latter considered these talks as confidential and in a statement issued after the electrocution he made but slight reference to these conversations.

The execution of Richeson was declared by witnesses to have been the most successful of any of the fourteen that have been held at the state prison since the electric chair was adopted. It was only necessary to apply the current once and less than 15 minutes after Warden Bridges and the party of witnesses left the prison office for the death house they filed back and attached their signatures to the papers stating that the order of the court had been complied with and that Richeson was dead.

The fortitude shown by the former clergyman as he walked calmly from the death cell, where he had been engaged in singing hymns, and took his place in the execution chair was declared to be remarkable. After the collapse of last Friday it had been feared that Richeson would not be able to stand the strain but his features did not falter and he answered the questions as to his faith in God, put to him by his spiritual adviser without flinching. With the execution of Richeson, Warden Benjamin F. Bridges and other prison officials were relieved of the strain under which they have been working ever since the man became an occupant of the cell in the death house.

No case in the history of Massachusetts jurisprudence has attracted such widespread attention as did the Richeson case and Warden Bridges has been flooded with letters and telegrams coming from all parts of the country, the majority of them unsigned. Many of them contained threats, some if the order of the court was complied with, and others if it was not. Frequently the prison officials received numerous communications addressed to the prisoner himself and to the Rev. Mr. Johnson. One received in the mail Monday addressed to Richeson but which was opened by Warden Bridges contained a quantity of cyanide of potassium, the drug with which Avis Linnell was poisoned. During the time that Richeson was in the death cell at the prison he was constantly attended by either Rev. Mr. Johnson or the prison chaplain, the Rev. Herbert W. Stebbins. The two taking turns and getting an hour or two sleep whenever they could. Both men were today almost utterly exhausted and badly in need of rest, as were Warden Bridges and other prison officials.

It was not until near daylight that the last of the morbidly curious who had hung about the prison gate throughout the night departed. In pouring rain, more than a thousand people stood outside the prison wall for hours awaiting the word that the execution had taken place. In the past it has been the custom for the party of witnesses to march through the prison yard to the death chamber, in view of those outside, and their return from the death chamber has been the signal to the waiting throngs that the prisoner was dead. In this instance, however, Warden Bridges chose to lead the way through the prison itself and so the throng could not even gratify their curiosity with a sight of the march to the chamber.

TI. Meeting

Mayor O'Donnell opened the hearing at 8:10 o'clock and he announced that one of the petitioners, Mr. Thomas F. Garvey could not be present having been called out of town on account of the death of his sister.

Mr. McKenzie's Plea

The first speaker was Mr. Chas. T. McKenzie of the school board, who said the school committee advocated additional rooms. He then went along giving a brief history of the Greenhalge school, saying it was opened in 1906 with the intention of using seven rooms. In September of the same year he said the ten rooms in the building were filled with an attendance of 150 pupils. In September lived it could have been built more cheaply, and when asked if he thought the building was all right in every way, he said he did not like the heating system, the plumbing and ventilating, and also stated there was great waste of space by cutting up into small rooms which are unnecessary.

Commissioner Cummings

Commissioner Cummings said the council would give the residents of West Centralville as much school accommodation as is needed even if they were forced to erect a temporary building in the yard. Mr. Whitcomb then said if the St. Louis' school does not double within a short time, the city will be forced to put up a new school.

He also said he did not believe in small school houses for as he said they are more expensive and less satisfactory is gotten from them.

"I hope the building of small school buildings will cease," said Mr. Whitcomb. "It has ceased in many other cities. Such a system costs very much more for the service of janitors. The expensiveness of Lowell schools is due largely to the fact that we have such a lot of two and four-room buildings to keep up."

"As an illustration of what I mean, let me cite the Pawtucket school, where Mr. Barry gets $2000 a year. He has six rooms. He is paid $333 a year to look after each room. Each of his teachers gets $700. The cost therefore is $1933 a year per room. On the other hand, Mr. Callahan at the Butler school has 16 rooms. He receives $2050 yearly, or $125 per room. His teachers also get $700 a year. The cost for teaching in the larger school is therefore $825 a year, almost $200 less a year a room than in the smaller school.

Principal Wood

Mr. Frederick Wood, principal of the school, spoke about in the same way as did Supt. Whitcomb and he added that the pupils of St. Louis' school received each year, in a way accounts for the occupancy of every room of his school. He said the parochial school was filled to overflowing, and inasmuch as his district was growing every day, matters will be still worse in a short time. He also stated that one man alone had built thirty houses in the vicinity of the church and when those houses are occupied, there will be another increase.

The others who spoke in favor of the petition were Messrs. William Gallagher, Marcel Chenevert, Mr. Minahan and others.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

There's a corking good show at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and you ought not to miss it especially if there are any sore spots in the region of your heart for there is ample opportunity for you to laugh them away.

Kenney and Hollis are right there with the tickles and if they don't extract a laugh it's up to you to see a doctor. They present their original sketch, "The College Students," and they are just too funny for anything. They have a whole lot of new stuff and they're coming up with new phrases and happy speeches all the time. Kenney is nature's sole agent for the funny stuff and it has been said about him that once upon a time he made a wooden Indian laugh. To explain what Kenney and Hollis do is an utter impossibility but there's a little tip that we are authorized to give you and the public in general, if it hurts you to laugh keep away from the Merrimack Square theatre for Kenney and Hollis are there.

Of course you know all about The Temple Players. They have been at this cosy little theatre for three weeks and, if you'll permit just a little more slang, they have made good. Sing, you say! Well you just ought to hear that bunch sing and they do so many clever things and do them so well that honest to goodness, Agnes, you can't afford to miss 'em. They are singing southern melodies this week and Jim Thompson who came here from "Virginia" some hundred years ago says that The Temple Players have touched an old home chord in the vicinity of his heart and when it comes to singing "Old Black Joe," he says they have all the other singers drowning in Chesapeake bay. Miss Grace Hawthorne is the leading soloist and we haven't heard a better singer in Lowell for many a day. She has a beautiful voice, great control, and it's a great big treat to hear her sing. She is heard in a number of pleasing songs and it must not be understood that she is without good support. "Bamboo Baby Dance," assisted by the entire company, is one of her best numbers, and the due in which she and James Byrnes, Jr., work, called "How Do You Do, Miss Lindy?" is another of the many bright things of the sketch. Jack Allman is heard in "Garden of My Heart," and he sings it especially well. Assisted by Miss Mac Lawless and Miss Josephine Barry, he introduces a clever mixture of song and dancing. George Lewis, in "Old Black Joe," with echo effect in the chorus, is another of the feature numbers, while Miss Winifred Gilbraine's dance number is also most acceptable. "Moonlight Love," by Miss Frankie Ward, brings out a new feature that's most enjoyable, and Miss Helen Potter, Nichols' number, "When Grandma Was a Girl," is especially pleasing. The concluding feature, "The Blue and the Gray," with tableau effect, is a fitting close to an excellent offering.

Kenyon, Allen and Kenyon, comedy jugglers, are in a class by themselves. They introduce many difficult feats in juggling and balancing, and are clever enough to mingle some good comedy with their offering. Emile Rees, violinist, is a wonder. He plays a silver violin and it is the only one of its kind played in public. Arthur Wesley, baton, is heard in some of the latest and most popular song hits of the season. The photo-plays for the first three days of the week are in keeping with the high standard of the past and add not a little to the general enjoyment of the entire bill. For the last three days of the week, "The Suffragette Parade in New York City," and "When Kings Were Law," both excellent picture portrayals will be featured.

KEITH'S LE PALACE D'ART

Le Palace D'Art, which was formerly known as Keith's theatre, in Bridge street, was crowded to the doors yesterday afternoon and last evening and there was good reason for the large attendance for the management furnished a program of vaudeville and moving pictures which is difficult to beat. There were five motion picture films and several vaudeville acts.

The head liner for the week is the grand opera quartet, who appear in roles of negro melodies. They are possessed of excellent voices and render many pleasing selections, among the songs being "My Old Kentucky Home" by Miss von Brocklin. Miss Irelle's singing caused vociferous applause and the other members of the quartet were good.

The Barrett brothers are good dance-

ers and they take a very prominent part in the vaudeville acts. When it comes to comedy Miles and Raymond have a skit that is a wonder. Bill and Brady appear in a juggling act and the manner in which they throw things in the air and at each other is marvelous.

The motion pictures are instructive and interesting. The program is given twice daily and there is a change of pictures every Thursday.

THEATRE VOYONS

A picture shown today at the Theatre Voyons is most interesting to the general public but more especially so to those of Canadian birth. It was taken the past winter by the Vitagraph company under the direction of the governor general of Canada and shows many scenes of great interest in the dominion. The houses of parliament, the privy council in session, several of the high dignitaries, the governor general and his family, and last but not least a brilliant scene on the royal ice rink with members of the royal family exhibiting their skill on the steel blades. "The Orphans of the Plains," a Pathé western is a humor and it surely provides enough excitement for those who love it.

THE LOWELL KASINO

The Lowell Kasino, one of the finest dance halls in New England, will open on May 28, with a party conducted by the Idle Hour campers.

For weeks, a large force of workmen has been engaged in the construction of this hall, which is in Thirlake street, just to the south of the old George mansion on an elevation overlooking the South common. Nothing has been left undone to make the place suitable for its purpose. The best quality of lumber has been used, particularly on the floor, which will have no superior in the country, according to the contractors.

The Kasino is right at the gate of the Highlands, and from that section alone will come a patronage sufficient to make the venture a profitable one. It will be the ambition of the proprietors, Messrs. Cushing and Barker, to conduct a strictly high class dancing hall.

During the summer months, the place should be especially attractive, as there is no cooler spot hereabouts than this. An orchestra of seven pieces will provide the music.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF $9000 FOR LAMARRE

Plaintiff Was Injured While at Work on Boiler House of Massachusetts Mills

In superior court this morning the sum of $1500. In his declaration the plaintiff alleges that he was hired by the defendants to sell their property known as the W. H. L. Hayes property in Middlesex street, and that he was to receive a commission if he disposed of the property. He also claims he sold the property and the commission amounted to $500, but the said amount was never paid to him. A. S. Howard appears for the plaintiff and Bent and Silverblatt for the defense.

Defendant Defaulted

The cases of Joseph Zadlions vs. Anna Paduck and William Zadlions vs. the same two actions of tort for alleged malpractice were dismissed of this morning, when the defendant in both cases was defaulted by the court, the assessment of damages being postponed to a later date. In both cases A. S. Goldman appeared for the plaintiff.

TOWN IS IN DANGER OF DESTRUCTION

Many Buildings Taken From Foundations

LACROSSE, Wis., May 21.—The town of Black River Falls, which was nearly destroyed by the bursting of a dam one year ago and which has been partly rebuilt by the state, is today in danger of destruction from the flood waters of the Black River. Practically all of the rebuilt main street is under water and a number of buildings have been taken from their foundations.

The river has risen eight feet in the last 24 hours and is still rising.

MURDERER INQUIRES ABOUT RICHESON

DENVER, May 21.—Oscar Cook, murderer, condemned to die in November, rose from his cot in the condemned cell in the county jail at midnight and boldly called to his guard:

"Has that preacher Richeson been electrocuted yet? I can't sleep thinking about him."

Through the night as the guard tramped the corridor the condemned man clung to the bars of his cell.

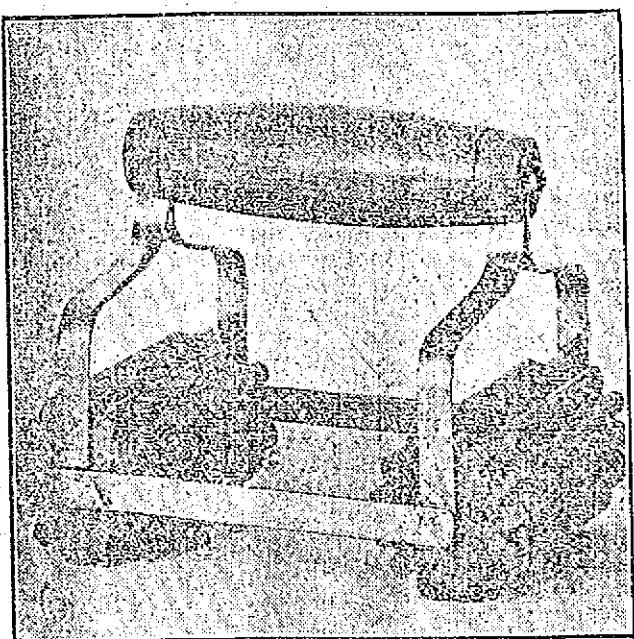

"Can't you telephone the newspapers and find out if he died like a man or a cur? See if he had to be carried," he asked. "It is easier than to be hanged. Do you think there is any chance of the state putting in a chair before November?"

Cook refused to return to bed, declaring that horrible nightmares filled his dreams.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

BOSTON, May 21.—Following her arrest on a charge of violating the liquor laws, Mrs. Mary Finch, a widow, committed suicide today by taking poison. A quantity of liquor was seized at Mrs. Finch's home during a raid and she was arrested. The woman was bailed shortly after her arrival at the police station. After returning to her home she swallowed poison.

REDISTRICTING BILL PASSED

BOSTON, May 21.—The special committee's bill apportioning the state into 16 new congressional districts was passed to be engrossed in the house today with a few changes. The alterations place Mansfield with Attleboro, and Abington and Rockland with Brockton. As the senate approved the bill without these changes the measure goes back to that branch for approval. It is expected to reach the governor the last of the week.

According to the political preferences of the voters at the last election the new bill will give Massachusetts eleven republican and five democratic congressmen.

2000 CHURCHES

REPORTED PASTORLESS AT ASSEMBLY OF PRESBYTERIANS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21.—After the surprising declaration that there are 2,000 churches in the United States "pastorless and shepherdless" had been made in the general assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church today, resolutions were adopted urging that all Presbyterian commissioners (laymen) keep in close touch with young men who might be candidates for the ministry.

Rev. Joseph W. Coborn of Philadelphia discussing a minister's "living charges" declared:

"We bear advices to the effect that a man to be a minister must starve. I never knew that to be true. I'll admit that the salaries are not princely, but it can't be remedied except by this very assembly."

Immediately Rev. Dr. Henry J. Becker of Dayton, O., interrupted:

"Hundreds of gray-haired men of the ministry annually are dismissed or cast aside," he said. "Men of brains, education and good records are eliminated for no other reason than they are 'too old.'"

M. E. CONFERENCE

MINNEAPOLIS, May 21.—Indications that the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will attempt to keep its resolution of rearing an adjournment on May 28 are evidenced in the night sessions, which were begun last night for the purpose of casting a ballot for bishops. It is probable that even with the election of one or two men today which hardly is expected by the delegates another night session will be held to-night.

Since the first ballot, on which Dr. Homer C. Stunta was elected numerous men have headed the no election ballots for a time only to give way when it seemed that the necessary two-thirds votes of the delegates present could not be obtained.

TO INCREASE CAPITAL STOCK

NEW YORK, May 21.—Directors of the United States Rubber Co. today recommended that the authorized capital stock of the company, now fully issued to the extent of $15,000,000, be increased to $20,000,000 to be divided into $10,000,000 common and $10,000,000 preferred. Out of this additional issue a common stock dividend of $3,000,000 or 20 per cent upon the present outstanding common stock is to be declared.

INTERESTING ITEMS FROM BOSTON & MAINE DEPOT

More Foreigners Arrive—Number of Lowell People Going Away

L. C. Ford, clerk at the baggage office at the Boston & Maine depot, who left this city Friday to spend a few days with his parents at Roxbury, Vt., returned to work yesterday morning. This morning he said that one inch and a half of snow fell before he left his parents' home yesterday. Mr. Ford says that twenty years ago last Saturday there was a snow storm there and six inches fell. He reports that at the present time conditions in that section of the country are very much improved and that he greatly enjoyed his little vacation.

Thirty-five immigrants arrived at the Middlesex st. depot this morning. They came here on the Fall River boat train, and while a few remained here the others went to Lawrence, Manchester and Berlin. Most of those who arrived today are Lithuanians.

Last night twenty Portuguese came here from Providence, R. I., via Boston on the 7:30 train. They were met at the depot by a large number of friends and all remained in this city. While at the depot, one of the visitors said that he was very hungry and that he had money but could not get it changed. He showed a $5 gold piece which was a Belgian coin. One of the attachés of the baggage office got the money exchanged for the man, receiving $2.75 in United States money for the piece. The man quickly went out and had lunch.

It is rumored at the depot that one of the tall employees of the baggage department is arranging to take a partner into the housekeeping business with him. The boys all wish him luck.

Many Lowell men left on the noon train for Boston to witness the Kline-Walsh fight there tonight.

IF YOU INTEND TO PAY

$20, $22 or $25 for your spring suit, you can save $5.00 if you buy it of the Talbot Clothing Co. this week. Every purchaser of a suit at $20 or over gets a present of a Five-Dollar Gold Piece.

BURGLARS GOT AWAY WITH $800

MERRICK, N. Y., May 21.—Burglars for the fourth time in a few months blew up the safe of Postmaster Birch early today and got away with $800 in cash and stamps. The safe, a new one, weighed a ton. They wheeled it out of the office into the street, piled bags of horse feed over it and blew it to pieces. On their first visit the burglars found a small safe and blew the door open. Birch put a new door on it and on the next visit they wrecked the safe entirely. Birch then bought his ton safe, which was supposed to be burglar proof. On their third visit, a few weeks ago, the burglars were only able to get the outer door open but this morning they put in a double charge of nitro glycerine.

WALTER JOHNSON A POPULAR PITCHER

The average ball player whose ability is such as to make him stand out from his teammates seldom is popular with them. With few exceptions star ball players usually bring about a condition on a team which proves detrimental to its success.

Walter Johnson of the Washington Americans, however, is a player who differs from most stars in this respect. Were it left to a vote of the players he would be unanimously chosen as the most popular man on the team, and it's all because of the ideal disposition of the young man who holds the distinction of being one of the greatest pitchers in the game today.

Johnson's success has never affected his head. He is wearing the same sized hat today that he wore the evening he reported from his home in Idaho. He does not consider himself above obeying orders and never objects to anything he is told to do; but, best of all, Walter is loyal to his team and his teammates. He roots hard for the other pitchers and has never been known to complain when errors have lost him a ball game.

Johnson's disposition is as valuable to him as that wonderful pitching arm, and there is never a time when every man on the team with him is not trying to do everything possible to help him win.

LOWELL HIGH TRIMMED LAWRENCE HIGH TEAM JIMMY MAGEE BACK IN GAME

Leggat's Great Twirling
Was the Feature of the Game

H. B. LEGGAT,
Who Pitched a Fine Game.

The Lowell High school baseball team and the team representing the Lawrence High school played at Lawrence yesterday and the Spindle City boys won by the score of 11 to 5. The game was one of the best ever played between the rival teams and was very close until the last inning when the Lowell boys by a great batting rally and some fine base running scored 3 runs, making the score 11 to 5. In the latter half of the inning, the Lawrence boys got 2 runs, but then Leggat finished up and retired the side.

The game was marked by exceptionally clever pitching by Leggat of the Lowell team. He was in great form and allowed the heavy hitting down river boys only three hits. He fanned 7 men and allowed but one free pass. At the bat the Lowell pitcher connected with two timely hits. Higgins of the defeated team fanned 14 of the Lowell sluggers.

A very pleasant feature of the contest was the fact that relations between the two teams have been resumed and that the differences in athletics that have existed for the past two years are patched up and now the admirers of both teams are anticipating some great contests between the representatives of both schools.

A large number of rooters accompanied the Lowell boys to Lawrence and during the game they were given many chances to cheer which they did with great effect. Among the most enthusiastic of those with the Lowell boys were School Committeemen O'Connor and Farrington, Principal Irish and Dr. Fordyce Coburn.

The Lowell Boys Gave Great Exhibition of Batting

Recovering From Injury—

Plays a Great Field-
ing Game

MANAGER BAILEY,
Of Lowell High School Team.

Jimmy Magee, Lowell's star left fielder who while at bat two weeks ago was struck on the wrist by a pitched ball, causing a bad injury that kept him on the bench until the latter part of last week when he went on the coach line, was back in the game yesterday. He took his position in the left field and went over to left. The outfield looked like a real one once again. Magee is one of the fastest outfielders in the league. He is strong on ground balls as well as the flies and is very fast. Anything that goes in his territory is generally nailed. He very seldom makes a misplay. On high fly balls he is fast at getting after them and many times has literally robbed batters of seemingly sure hits. With Magee back the outfield is fine. Many of the local fans are of the opinion that had Magee been in Saturday's game the ball that went in left for two bases would be easy picking for Jimmy.

He celebrated his return to the game yesterday by making ten put outs, which is going some for an outfielder. Added to the number, he got one that looked good for two bases easy. The ball was hit by Maloney in the third and at the crack of the bat, Jimmy went to it and pulled it off the fence for the best catch that has been seen at the local grounds this season. At the bat Jimmy is a good hitter, but yesterday though making two perfect sacrifice hits, he did not connect with any bungles.

The fans are glad to see him back in the game and are confident that his batting eye will be right there after a few games.

MORE CLASS

DAY OF ROUGHNECK BALL
PLAYER HAS GONE

"Leaving aside all consideration as to whether the game of baseball has progressed, and personally I think it has, there can be no argument over the fact that the class of players is better now than it was in the old days," says Joe Sudgen, the veteran catcher who coached the Detroit recruit pitchers last spring.

"Take this year's youngsters, for instance. There isn't a roughneck nor a booze fighter among the lot. Every one of the men has a fair if not a good education, and in appearance they compare very favorably with a bunch of collegians. They dress well and tastefully, have excellent manners and are able to converse intelligently on almost any subject."

"A modern big league baseball club is as well behaved a body of men as you will find anywhere. There used to be a time when the best hotels fought shy of the ball tossers, but now the landlords fight to get them. A man would be insane if he tried to drink steadily under modern conditions. The game is too fast for anyone but an athlete in splendid condition."

"Instead of reporting in the spring saturated with a winter's accumulation of alcoholics, as did some of the old-timers, the men of today, or at least most of them, are about ready to get in and play ball when they arrive at the training camps. There are some of the fellows who naturally accumulate flesh in the cold months, when they do not get much exercise, but they are very few who put on any fat through the medium of beer."

"No big league scout nowadays will recommend a player who has the reputation of being a steady drinker, even though he doesn't lap them up to excess. There is no room in the leagues for the saloon boys, and it doesn't take any one long to learn that baseball and booze are not good friends."

"If a saloon keeper could be assured the patronage of the entire American and National leagues, he wouldn't be able to pay rent. I do not mean that every big league is a teetotaler, but there are a lot of abstainers and a vast majority will only only a couple of glasses of beer a day."

"The rowdy is passing from baseball rapidly, and the sooner he disappears entirely the better it will be for the game. Naturally the improvement in the big leagues is having its effect on the smaller circuits. The minor players realize that they have little chance of going up if their reputations are bad, and, with scouts lurking around all the time, it pays to cut out the rough stuff."

"Baseball ought to be a gentleman's business, and the players who deserve the name of gentlemen are becoming more numerous season after season. If a fellow can't act the part he better find some other occupation."

WANTS PITCHING GIANTS

Manager Bresnahan of the St. Louis Nationals says:

"I contend the bigger the pitcher the easier his task. A big fellow inspires the batters with fear. If he's got the stuff he should prosper with less exertion than the little guy. Put a little man on the hurling hillock and the batter figures he can't have much speed. Therefore they wade into him. That's why I'm for the big men as long as they last."

CLARKE LAYS OUT SOME IRONCLAD RULES

Fred Clarke, the famous veteran manager of the former world's champion Pittsburgh National-league team, has posted the following code of rules for his players during the season, which we give herewith as a matter of interest to or pattern for other team managers:

First.—Don't smoke cigarettes. If you must use tobacco, select a good Pittsburgh stogie or a pipe.

Second.—Don't drink. Alcoholic stimulants used in moderation may do a little harm; they can do no good and they are dangerous. Better to take a tea-tablet.

Third.—Don't keep late hours. "Early to bed and early to rise" is still a good maxim.

Fourth.—Don't gamble. Worrying about an ace full that was beaten last night or wondering how the horses are running while play is in progress are alike distracting.

Fifth.—Don't be a grouch. Cheerfulness is a very desirable quality in anybody—a ball player in particular. Sharp answers and displays of temper on the field interfere with successful team work and often cause enemies.

Sixth.—Don't procrastinate. If anything interferes with reporting on time, cut it out. Tardiness sets a bad example.

Seventh.—Don't be a backbiter. If you have an idea that the club is not being conducted properly tell the manager about it. If your suggestions are good he'll appreciate them.

Eighth.—Don't be a quitter. If you are getting a bad break in the luck, brace yourself and fight all the harder.

Ninth.—Don't sulk. If you've been called down the chances are that you deserved it, and you'll gain nothing by showing your teeth.

Tenth.—Don't bait the umpire. Bas-ball law gives him the advantage over you at all times, so that it does not pay to oppose him. The captain will attend to all necessary kicking.

An interesting address on "Japan and Her Development" was delivered by Dr. Thomas B. Smith before the

There was a large attendance and the speaker who is conversant with the conditions in Japan as a result of his having visited that island had a fine collection of swords, sword hilts and other sword furnishings which he collected when he was in that country.

Dr. Smith opened his lecture with a short description of the trade which Japan carried on with Europe in the 17th century, of the Christian converts who were made at that time, and then the ending of this period in 1615 by the decree of the shogunate under

OF MISERY

Mrs. Burnside Escaped an Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"For three years I suffered untold misery every month, and had to stay in bed the first two or three days. I also had a displacement and other ailments peculiar to women. I became so weak and run down that I could scarcely walk across the floor.

"The doctor told me I would never be well unless I would undergo an operation, but I was advised by my mother to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken four bottles I am strong and well. I have got others to take your medicine with the same good results and they cannot say enough for it."—Mrs. J. A. BUNN, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

In almost every neighborhood you will find women who have been restored to health by the Pinkham medicines. Many would not have a testimonial published, but would talk about their cure to another woman.

which the Christian converts as well as all foreigners in the country were exiled or beheaded. Then Japan entered upon her period of separation from the other countries of the world and became the "hermit kingdom."

From this period to the time of Perry's visit to Japan about the middle of the last century, Japan was shut off from the rest of the world, with the exception of a very curious trade carried on by the Dutch, who were subjected to all sorts of insults in keeping up even this slender point of contact with the world. But Perry's visit opened Japan to the outside world, accomplished what Russia, England, Germany and France had all tried to accomplish, only to end in total failure. Perry, however, had studied the situation carefully and his visit had been planned at an opportune time and the result was that it was successful.

Then he told of the rapid strides which Japan had made in the past 50 years, and of their wonderful military accomplishments in the war with Russia. He ended this portion of the lecture with a short consideration of the possibility of a war between the United States and Japan, in which he said that he felt it was extremely unlikely on account of the very friendly feeling which Japan has for the United States for her part in putting an end to the Russo-Japanese war.

He closed his lecture with a very interesting comparison of the Japanese code of honor, the Bushido, with the code of honor of the knights of the middle ages, as embodied in the code

THIN BLOOD IS
EASILY REMEDIEDEvery Dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Makes New Blood and
Means Renewed Health
And Strength.

People who are pale, languid, with slight palpitation of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to fatigue are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood and new blood means health and strength. Their stopperless progress of the disease and their success as a blood-builder can be plainly seen after a short trial. Their checks, good appetite, increased weight and strength, cheerful disposition and relief from the symptoms, all declare the general improvement in health. It is pure blood now that is traveling everywhere through the body and the benefit goes on until health is restored.

Mr. F. J. King, of No. 124 Poplar Street, Carrick, Pa., says:

"A few years ago I began to fail in health because of the poor condition of my blood. I was weak and tired out all of the time and sleepy. I had frequent sick headaches and suffered terribly with them. I lost in weight. I was idle and down-hearted; that I felt as though I was never going to be well and strong again. I couldn't sleep well and had terrible dreams. I was nervous and irritable and couldn't stand still a minute."

"My mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. After I had used the first box, I began to gain. I used them perhaps longer than I needed to, but continued taking them until I was certain that I was cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fever, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor atrophy.

The remedy which gave Mrs. King complete health can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N.Y., 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.

of chivalry. He also told at some length of the ceremonial character of the sword, of its meaning to a Japanese samurai, of their peculiar custom of hach-kari, a sort of honorable suicide, telling in connection with this that great epic of Japan, "the story of the forty-seven ronins."

CHURCH FEDERATION
MET LAST NIGHTAdopted Amendment to the Constitution

The federation of churches held a special meeting last night in Kitson hall, to take action on the proposed amendment to the constitution, enlarging the membership of the executive committee by including the chairman of special committee. The amendment was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Rev. William A. Wood was chosen to represent the Methodist denomination on the executive committee, to take the place of Rev. H. W. Hook, who has left the city.

Rev. J. M. Craig presented the matter of a petition that had been sent to him for endorsement by the Federation, in support of the Shepard interstate liquor bill. The bill is the one endorsed by most of the temperance forces and is aimed to prevent the sale of liquor under United States government license in the "dry" states. Endorsement was voted.

Rev. C. T. Billings offered a suggestion that the Federation do some work along the line of university extension. This was thought by the chairman to more properly come under the consideration of the executive committee, and discussion of the proposition was deferred until the executive meeting that followed.

Various matters were discussed at the executive session and referred to special committee to be reported upon at some later date.

POLICE ARE AT WORK
ON MURDER CASEBody of Woman Was Found in Bungalow

CHICAGO, May 21.—Chicago and Los Angeles police are working on the theory that the woman whose body was found in a bungalow near Los Angeles May 7th was Minnie Quinn, formerly a domestic for Mrs. Harold F. McCormick of Lake Forest, Ill., and Douglas Smith of Winnetka, Ill., and that she may have been killed by C. G. Dillon, an electrician who was crushed to death by a train near Chicago last Saturday.

Mr. Smith yesterday partly identified a photograph of the dead woman as that of his former servant. She received calls while in his employ from a man named Dillon, who she said was an electrician and whom she declared she intended to marry.

THE LOCAL AUTO DEALERS HAVE MADE MANY SALES

In Spite of Inclement Weather
During Past Several Weeks
—Much Repair Work

Although the weather conditions during the past few weeks has been rather unsettled and interfered with the sales of automobiles by the local agents, numerous sales have been made during the past few days. The repair business is brisk as many owners of cars have been tardy in having their cars overhauled and painted. Big Touring Car Arrives

Thomas E. Hustwick, formerly salesman for the Lowell Automobile corporation but now employed in the same capacity with the Boston branch of the Oldsmobile, was a visitor in Lowell today. He was accompanied by W. B. Fewell, manager of the Boston branch, and J. L. Marland, chauffeur and demonstrator. The machine which the trio used is one of the latest models of the Oldsmobile limited touring car, being a seven passenger, six cylinder car, and attracted considerable favorable attention inasmuch as it is a very attractive automobile. It has a wheel base of 140 inches, with artillery wheels, the dimensions of the tires being 43 by 5, red body, and running gear and black mud guards. It is a high powered machine and one of the latest creations of the Oldsmobile factory.

Mr. Hustwick has been very successful as a salesman for the car and is now greatly interested in the new home of the Oldsmobile which is being erected in Boston. The building is to be of three stories with a large basement and will be ready for occupancy about August 15.

The popularity of the car is demonstrated by the fact that the members of the Bowes family of Pinchurst, Millville, Mass., purchased six cars last year.

Many Buicks Sold

The manager of the Lowell Automobile Corporation in Appleton street reports many sales during the past week. Oliver H. Perry has purchased a model 28 Buick and Dr. G. Forrest Martin will soon be seen driving a model 36. Nelson D. Keables and Edward F. Saunders have also bought models 36. Robertson Bros., furniture dealers in Prescott street, have purchased a model 2 A, one ton truck, to use in connection with their increasing business, the horse drawn apparatus being rather slow. Among the other sales made during the past several days is a model 17 to Walter Ellings, a model 5 to Richard W. Parmentier.

DARING JOE DAWSON WILL PILOT A NATIONAL

GATHERING NEWS IN A MOTOR CAR

One of the Most Novel
Ideas in Mexico

At the Big Race to be Held at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day

When the big blue Nationals pike will not deviate from his cool, heady driving in the coming race. Many races have been won through nursing tires and machine. But again, the faster the pace the better Dawson likes it. They can't drive too fast for him. Marion pilot, will be seen at the wheel of one of them. And when the race is finished thousands of Indianapolis enthusiasts are hoping that it will be Joe who receives the first place of live wreath in the shape of the largest piece of prize money that has ever been hung up for an automobile race.

Dawson and the National company came to terms at the last moment, and Dawson getting acquainted with his car has been reeling off last laps at the big brick track.

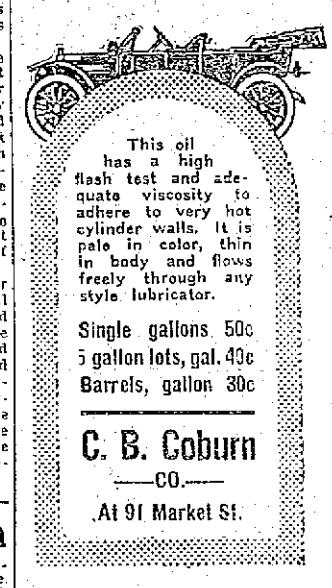

When the Marion factory announced that no car would be entered in Memorial day race, speculation begins as to what Dawson would do.

It was rumored several weeks ago that smiling Joe might drive a National, but when his name was connected with the White Six entry the National talk died down.

There will be a big sign of relief up from the dopester's camp when it is known that Dawson has picked a car. The National's speed is a known quantity, and Dawson's driving since his entry into the driving end of the game three years ago has never been questioned.

Dawson cannot be classed as a devilish driver. He is a product of that school of racing that believes that a car should be carefully driven. Dawson is a past master in taking care of his tires and his car, and the probably one escape being made by leaving the rear passenger door in the possession of an unskilled crew, who had stopped the car on a pretext of examining its contents.

In spite of a few drawbacks of this nature, the reporters declare news gathering by automobile a vast improvement over the old method, and it is probable that the war correspondent's motor car will soon be part of the equipment of every first class newspaper in Mexico.

DEATHS

GORDON—Hiram W. Gordon, a soldier of the Civil war and long resident of Lynn, died at his home, 132 Broad street, last night. He was born in Dorchester, N. H., on March 25, 1838. He enlisted on April 15, 1861, in the Old Sixth Massachusetts Regiment of Infantry and was with the command on April 19 when it was attacked in the streets of Baltimore. He served in the army until mustered out in November, 1861, when he came to Lowell. In 1866 he moved from Lowell to Lynn and started in the stencil and die business, which he continued until his death, his place of business being at 512 Washington street. He leaves a widow.

McWILLIAMS—Edward McWilliams, aged three years, died yesterday at the home of his parents, James P. and Mary McWilliams, 362 Broadway.

BOWERS—S. Clifford Bowers, aged 21 years, son of Duncan and Annie Bowers, died this morning at the family residence, 415 Lawrence street. Besides his parents he leaves three sisters, Blanche, Bertha, and Anna; three brothers, Duncan, V. William and James. Funeral notice later.

JOHNSON—Eliza A. Johnson, aged 71 years and 9 months, died today at her late home, 122 Hale street. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Parker J. and Isaac and two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Wilcox of Rutland, Vt., and Julia Wilcox of South Chelmsford.

JONES—Mario Cläre Yvonne, aged one day, infant daughter of Amédée and Agnes Jean, died today at the home of her parents, 35 Melvin street.

FUNERALS

CARSON—The funeral of Frank E. Carson took place yesterday afternoon at the Wilson cemetery, chapel. Rev. E. Victor Higginson officiated. Burial took place in the family lot in charge of Undertaker John A. Weinbeck.

ST. PETER—The funeral of William Francis, son of Francis and Mary St. Peter, took place from the home of his parents, 2 Goward's court, yesterday afternoon and was well attended. Prayers were read at the grave by Rev. N. W. Matthews. Burial was in the Edison cemetery in charge of Undertaker George M. Eastman.

DOLE—The funeral of William T. Dole took place yesterday afternoon from his residence, 553 Westford street. The services were conducted by Rev. A. Frederick Daniels, pastor of the Highland Congregational church. Appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Percy J. Wilson. A delegation was present representing Lowell Lodge No. 22, Ancient Order of United Workmen. The bearers were Messrs. Fred C. Bean, Howard E. Chase, Charles T. Killarick and Oris F. Osgood. Burial was in the family lot in the Edison cemetery. The funeral arrangements were in charge of Mr. Charles A. Morgan, under the direction of Undertaker George W. Healey.

PERRAULT—The funeral of Levi Perrault took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the rooms of J. F. O'Donnell & Sons and was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends, including a number from out of town. Despite the request for no floral tributes there were many beautiful offerings, including a Pillow in the shape of a "Papa" from the family wreath, the Perrault family; wreath, the military girls of the Bon Marché spray, the Misses Bambucks; spray, Jeremiah, Italy; spray, the Rev. John Young and Walter Hickley. At the grave Rev. John McHugh read the committal prayers and the burial was at St. Patrick's cemetery.

WEEDEN—The funeral of George Williams took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the home of his parents, 633 Lakeview avenue. Services were conducted at the house by Rev. X. W. Matthews. The floral offerings consisted of: Spray from the deceased parents; spray, grandma and Uncle Will; spray, Aunt Maggie; bouquet, bout and uncle, and a bouquet, aunt and uncle. Burial was in the family lot in the Westford cemetery, where Rev. Mr. Matthews conducted the committal services at the grave. Funeral Director James W. McKenna had charge.

JONES—The funeral of Miss Catherine Jones took place this morning at 8:30 from the funeral parlors of John F. Mr. Kelly was organist. The bearers were J. Clark, R. Peters, J. Burns, F. Donovan. Burial took place in St. Patrick's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Fr. Woods. Funeral Director John F. Rogers in charge.

MANY APPLICANTS

FOR NATURALIZATION PAPERS AT COURT HOUSE TODAY

The two clerks who were giving out the naturalization papers this morning at the court house on Gorham street had the time of their lives with the crowd that was on hand. It was calculated there were between 250 and 300 who applied for their papers. When the office of the clerk opened at nine o'clock there was a row of men which practically filled the hall.

In the large gathering were about 75 French speaking people, a large number of Greeks and several English speaking people. The clerks handed out the application blanks and after they were filled the applicants went to the office and there were asked the formal questions. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the clerk reported that he had given out about 35 papers and the place was still packed with applicants.

ST. PETER—The funeral of William Francis, son of Francis and Mary St. Peter, took place from the home of his parents, 2 Goward's court, yesterday afternoon and was well attended. The services were conducted by Rev. A. Frederick Daniels, pastor of the Highland Congregational church. Appropriate selections were sung by Mrs. Percy J. Wilson. ## THE SILLY SEASON OPENS

The coming of the warm weather marks the time of drownings when youngsters disregard parental warnings, rush to rivers and canals and take risks that in many cases mean certain death. It is useless to caution these people against the danger. The only way to save them is to prevent them bathe in such dangerous places.

One good method is to provide a place that is less dangerous. This is yet in the convenience of our city. The Sheed Park when properly developed will have a swimming pond. The time will come, too, when even school children will have an opportunity to learn to swim in the public playgrounds.

Next to the foolishness of the youngsters who cannot swim, is that of the young men who go boating and become so hilarious that they tip over and go to the bottom. If it were not for the fact that so many people, young and old, destroy their lives in one way or another we should not need nearly so many undertakers.

THE CAMPAIGN

Decidedly the funniest feature of the campaign is the effort made by certain republican papers to make the democratic situation look ridiculous. Thus far, the campaign on the democratic side has been conducted with remarkable equanimity and a very laudable absence of personalities. The candidates are conducting the canvass in a most dignified manner. In fact there is not a ripple on the waters, so to speak, in comparison to the whirlpools, the counter currents, the tidal waves and we might say the icebergs bearing down upon the republican bark. Clark, Wilson, Harmon and Underwood are going along in a very dignified manner, and Bryan whom the republicans name as a compromise candidate, is well behaved and in a receptive mood. In this particular instance the democratic party shows self-respect. We have had our fights, it is true, but in this case we are too much interested in watching the scrap on the other side to start a fight on our own account. The Baltimore convention, we believe, will exercise wise judgment and name a winning candidate. The country needs deliverance from the fragments of the republican party that was.

THE NAVAL ICE PATROL

The hydrographic service of the United States has sent a scout cruiser to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland to do ice patrol duty and report daily by wireless the movements of the great ice floes. This will be a great boon to navigation as it will enable the trans-Atlantic liners to calculate with reasonable accuracy where they are likely to encounter these bergs, for the direction in which they are moving is given as well as the location at the time of observation.

This is probably the very best use to which a cruiser can be put as it may result in saving other liners from a fate similar to that of the Titanic.

Here is how the Springfield Republican puts it:

"Congress is neglected and its work lags because the country can be interested in nothing so humdrum while the great political sporting event of the nation, our quadrennial chawing and clawing match for the presidency, absorbs public attention."

Well, is it any wonder since the president of the Ananias club and the president of the United States are in a finish fight in which each has promised to knock out the other. The Johnson-Jeffries fight was not a circumstance to the present combat in which Roosevelt has entered the ring to beat Taft.

NEW RESERVATION SCHEME

The new "state reservation" with Lowell and a few other cities in the Merrimack Valley responsible for the expense, is a real novelty. Who invented this new scheme? We do not believe the municipal board understood this phase of the bill when it lent its indorsement to the movement. There is no risk of loss in the purchase if the business be done right, but Lowell being farthest away from the beach has less interest in it than the cities farther down the river.

DAMAGES FOR TITANIC VICTIMS

Congress has taken up an old bill that has been pigeonholed since 1909, the object of which is to provide facilities by which the relatives or dependents of those who lose their lives in accidents at sea, may recover from the companies responsible. The bill now before congress provides that a damage suit of this kind may be brought a year after the fatality. That measure if enacted will enable the dependents of the Titanic victims to sue for damages in the admiralty courts.

RIGHT STEP BY SOCIALISTS

The Socialists at their convention at Indianapolis disclaimed responsibility for the J. W. W. policy of "direct action" which is understood to mean violence. In so doing the Socialists have shown that they are not in league with the advocates of sabotage and other methods which should have no place in the principles of any labor organization.

The third term idea is entirely dropping out of sight in the present campaign between Roosevelt and Taft, yet that is one of the fundamental reasons why Roosevelt should not be nominated.

While the battle wages, victory is still uncertain and hence it is not safe to predict just how the Roosevelt-Taft fight is coming out. Nobody knows.

Murphy is said to be the Roosevelt angel in this campaign. If he is his back account will be a good deal less when the fight is ended.

Seen and Heard

It is reasonable to suppose that there is something the matter with a man when you find him clinging to a lamp-post, with his collar and his hat awry, looking up at the full moon, and wondering anxiously what keeps it from falling down.

The automobile driver never feels that he is as reckless as people on the sidewalk think he is.

No man who has just been awakened by the alarm clock is ever cheerful. It may be true that there are exceptions to all rules, but it is safer to go on the theory that the rules hold good.

Another difference between a man and a woman is that when the man goes shopping he is pretty sure to spend some money.

If people generally would try as hard to behave well as they do to look well, how much better off this world would be!

A man never realizes his own insignificance more than when he is indisposed and has to stay at home an afternoon when the Woman Suffrage club holds a meeting at the house.

A lawyer, arguing a divorce case recently, closed his address in the jury as follows:

"My client is a beautiful woman, so beautiful that the sun seems to stand still while the stars gaze at her. Truthful! Falsely lies from her eyes as the Jackrabbits do from the grayhound. Sweet! Gentleman, honest would freeze in her mouth. Tender and slender! My client could bathe in a fountain pen."—National.

A FELLOW'S MOTHER.

"A fellow's mother," said Fred, "the wife."

With rosy cheeks and merry blue eyes,

"Knows what to do if a fellow gets hurt."

By a bump or bruise, or fall in the dirt.

"A fellow's mother has bags and strings."

Bags and buttons and lots of things.

No matter how busy she is, she'll stop

To see how well you can split your top.

"She does not care—not much, I mean."

If a fellow's face is not quite clean;

And if your trousers are torn at the knee,

She can put on a patch you'd never see!

"A fellow's mother is never mad,

And only sorry, if you are bad;

And I'll tell you this, if you're only true,

She'll always forgive you, whatever you do.

"A fellow's mean who would never try

To keep a tear from her loving eye;

And the fellow's worse who sees it not.

That his mother's the truest friend he's got!"

—Margaret E. Sungster.

There are a great many things to break the stillness of the midnight air but rarely do we hear that it has been broken or even cracked by the voice of a fair young lady in eulogy of some great national character who served and gave his country. Last Thursday night, however, the midnight air was rent asunder by the high-pitched voice of a young lady at Lincoln square in Chelmsford street. She was returning from a party, in company with other ladies, and arriving at the monument she stood within the enclosure and paid glowing tribute to the memory of Lincoln. The hour was a bit unsavory, perhaps, but the young lady was very earnest about it and they do tell that she made a corking good speech.

Even the man who always uses irreverent grammar cannot always be depended upon to say something really worth hearing.

Somebody said: "To be strong in dull and dreary duty is about the hard-

THE MILITIA STIRRED

High Officer is Asked to Resign

BOSTON, May 21.—The commanding officer of one of the best known organizations in the militia has been called upon by his battalion commander to resign. The reason given is that his efficiency record is too low.

Although the request for the resignation was presented some two weeks ago, the officer has thus far ignored it and it is understood proposes to contest the matter, claiming that he believes himself entirely efficient, and cannot admit a condition that does not exist.

Intimate friends, it is said, are backing him up in his decision not to leave the service unless forced out at the end of a military court.

This matter of efficiency records, private reports on individual officers, raised a great deal of smoke following the manoeuvres in southeastern Massachusetts in 1909. Stories began to fly that several were to be forced out on the strength of confidential reports made by superior officers as to their efficiency.

The names of those under fire were openly mentioned and included a colonel, Lieutenant-colonel and a commanding officer of a battalion.

One of the officers became so annoyed that he called upon the then adjutant-general (Brigham) to either deny or affirm the rumor. He received the assurance, it is said, that the story was not circulated by his authority and that he believed that there was nothing in it.

The adjutant-general was plainly told by the aggrieved officer that it was proposed to drive him out of the service, there was going to be a fight "from the ground up." Nothing further was then heard of the matter, and the talk ceased.

Sometime afterward one colonel retired, while the other two who had received unpleasant publicity remain in the service today, and are officers of professional worth, both in a military and civic way.

It is said that the present demand for the officer's resignation is but the advance guard of a number to be made.

POLICEMAN KILLED

BY TWO BURGLARS

When They Were Caught at Work

NAUEN, Germany, May 21.—The example of the apaches who recently terrified Paris and its environs has been quickly followed by some criminals here. Two of them, detected last night while committing burglaries, dashed to their bicycles, which had been left outside the house. On the way they were confronted by a policeman whom they shot dead. They then rode rapidly away but pursuers fired upon and wounded one of the bandits. His comrade then deliberately killed him to prevent his capture and possible betrayal. The surviving burglar continued the battle against some hundreds of armed police and countrymen until he was finally shot dead.

MANY WERE DROWNED WHEN BOAT CAPSIZED

Fourteen Bodies Have Been Recovered

GROUND FOR BUILDING AT HOLY CROSS TO BE BROKEN

WORCESTER, May 21.—The ground for Beaven hall, the $100,000 gift of the priests of the Springfield diocese to Holy Cross, will be broken Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. by the Rt. Rev. Thomas D. Beaven, D. D., bishop of Springfield. This will be the closing ceremony of the second decennial celebration in honor of the members of the college in the hierarchy. A solemn high pontifical mass will be celebrated by Bishop Beaven at 10:30 o'clock on Wednesday morning with five other graduate bishops, six monsignors and many priests in attendance.

THE SUN'S DAILY PICTURE PUZZLE

SWAT THE FLY.

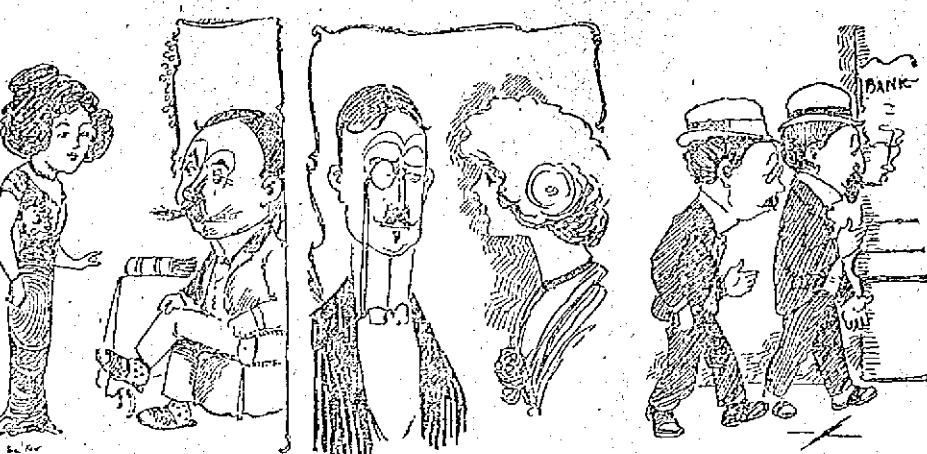

While this advice is very grand and smacks of common sense, don't swat it in some holder's hand. But swat it over the fence.

Find a flea.

ANSWER TO YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE.

Right side down in lady's head.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

SHE KNEW.

Barold—Of course, I have my faults—Hattie—And you usually have them with you.

ANOTHER VIEWPOINT.

Single blessedness beats matrimony every time.

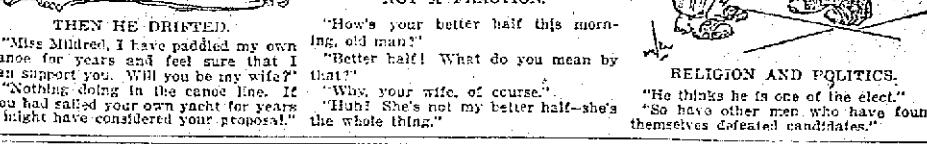

“Oh I don’t know. Matrimony has its advantages.”

“You’ll have to show me.”

“Well, for example, a bachelor has to pay to attend lectures, while a married man gets his at home for nothing.”

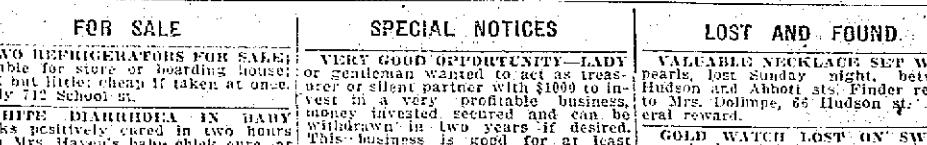

NOT A FRACTION.

RELIGION AND POLITICS.

“He thinks he is one of the elect.”

“So have other men who have found themselves defeated candidates.”

LOST AND FOUND.

STABLE FOR HEALTH DEPT. DISCUSSED AT MEETING OF MUNICIPAL COUNCIL

At a meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon several petitions were considered and a proposition for loans and other business were discussed.

Mayor O'Donnell called to order at 2:15 with all members present. The first business was a petition for the storage of gasoline in the rear of 375 and 477 Moody street and the petition was granted as was a petition to keep and store gasoline at 14 Coral street. The Lowell Electric Light Corporation asked for a pole location in Cambridge street and the petition was referred to Commissioners Brown and Cummings.

Who is responsible for pole locations in Perkins street in Little Canada that are an obstruction to travel and for poles in Lawrence street that are also obstructions?" asked Ald. Barrett, and the question going unanswered, he moved that the inspector of wires be asked to report on the matter at the next meeting.

The Lowell Electric Light corporation asked for pole locations in Tenth street and the petition was recommended to the commissioner of streets and highways and public property.

Alderman Barrett argued that all hearings should be held in the evening.

Petition of Horace P. Beats for permission to keep, store and use gasoline in Marlborough street was read and hearing was ordered for June 11, at 2 p.m.

Other petitions for license to keep gasoline were read and hearings set for June 11.

Various petitions for pole locations and wire attachments were referred to Commissioners Brown and Cummings.

Ald. Barrett asked the representative of the N. E. T. & T. Co., Samuel Johnson, the distance from John Steadman's house in Westworth Avenue to the nearest telephone pole. Mr. Johnson said 150 feet and Mr. Barrett said he understood it was 120 feet and he moved that the city engineer be instructed to measure the distance between Mr. Steadman's house and the nearest telephone pole.

The petition of the Lowell Electric Light Corporation for underground conduits in Andover street was read and a hearing ordered for 7:30 p.m., June 4.

Petition of the Lowell Insulated Wire Company and others for edge-stones in Lincoln street was voted a hearing, June 4, at 7:30 p.m.

Notices of all such hearings will be duly advertised.

A hearing on the petition of the Bay State Street railway for various relocations of tracks in Bridge, Pawtucket, Lawrence and other streets was read by its title and a hearing ordered for June 11, at 7:30 p.m.

New Stable Needed

The $35,000 order for a stable in the board of health yard in Broadway was read by the mayor and he told of the very great need of a stable for the health department.

Afternoon Cummings said that the building in question was the most dilapidated building he had seen for many a day and he thought it was a disgrace to the city. He would willingly vote, he said, for a new stable.

Inspector Connor of public buildings was called to explain the cost and need of a stable.

Alderman Barrett asked as to the negotiation of the loan necessary for the building of a stable and when the work would be begun. He was told that the plan had been drawn and that work on the stable would be started within a few days.

An order to borrow $5,000 for new sidewalks was read.

Ald. Brown said that at a meeting in the year Ald. Barrett, in discussing street work, said that new sidewalks might well come under the head of permanent improvements and be provided for by loan.

Mr. Barrett said he hadn't any recollection of having said anything of the kind, and asked: "What has become of the $140,000 appropriated for street work?"

"What has become of the $223,500 for the water department?" asked Mr. Brown.

The city auditor was sent for and in reply to questions by Alderman Brown said that money had been borrowed in former years, for new sidewalks.

Blame City Treasurer

At 4:30 Alderman Barrett proceeded to read charges against City Treasurer Stiles. The latter was present with D. J. Donohue as his counsel.

LOADED REVOLVER FOUND ON MAN

Arrested During Parade of Strikers

CLINTON, May 21.—During a parade today of the strikers of the Lancaster mills, Stanislaus Chiavaris, a Greek who was bearing an American flag, was taken out of the line by two policemen without opposition and placed under arrest for defacing the flag, which bore the letters "L. W. W."

The man was taken to the police station and a fully loaded revolver was removed from his hip pocket. An additional charge of carrying concealed weapon was lodged against him and he was locked up.

WARREN MAY LIVE 2300 VOLTS OF ELECTRICITY PASSED THROUGH HIS BODY

PLAINVILLE, May 21.—For five minutes today 2300 volts of electricity from a feed wire passed through the body of Lincoln Warren, a wireman, as he hung strapped to a pole in plain view of hundreds of people. When the current was finally shut off the horrified spectators were amazed to see the man retain consciousness and climb down the pole unassisted. The doctors say he may live.

JOHN HARRIS MET WITH PAINFUL ACCIDENT AT HAMILTON MILLS

John Harris, a rather old man, who resides at 10 Hurst street met with a painful accident while at work at the Hamilton mills this afternoon. The accident resulted from Mr. Harris being caught in a large freight elevator. The ambulance was summoned and he was removed to the hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from a bad laceration on the head and internal injuries.

GOV. POTHEIR STARTS WORK OF CONSTRUCTING SO. NEW ENGLAND ROAD

WOONSOCKET, R. I., May 21.—Ascending a platform surrounded by ponderous railroad building machinery and about 500 people, Governor J. Pothier pulled the lever of a giant steam shovel on the old Sidney Whittaker farm here today and the actual work of constructing the Southern New England railroad which will bring the Grand Trunk system from Palmer, Mass., to trolleyway in Providence was begun. Before pulling the throttle Gov. Pothier made a brief address in which he said that the enterprise which he had formally started would revolutionize the commercial activities of southern New England.

After his remarks, Gov. Pothier was handed a pair of gloves by Thomas A. Clements, superintendent of construction, and wearing these he grasped the throttle and gave it a pull. The machinery started, the huge scoop dug deep into the Woonsocket soil and the work of railroad building started.

TWO SESSIONS HELD OF PROBATE COURT

At the Local Court House

Today

WILL OF EDNA C. RICE CONTESTED

Several Wills in Uncon tested Session

Two sessions of the probate court were held this morning, the contested presided over by Judge Lawton and the uncontested in the care of Judge McIntire.

The most important case in the contested session and one which took the largest part of the court's time was that of the will of the late Edna C. Rice, which is being contested by about 17 legal heirs.

As far as could be learned Edna C. Rice left in her original will the bulk of her property to her sister, Helen F. Rice, who later died, $1,000 to St. Paul's church, $5,000 to Edward C. Hosmer and wife and the residue to the Lowell Humane Society, and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, the former to have one-third and the latter two-thirds. Later Miss Rice made another will revoking the Hosmer clause and leaving in trust to William T. Shepard $16,500, the income to be paid to Mr. and Mrs. Hosmer during their lives and after their death to be turned over to the residuary legatee.

The will is being contested by about 17 relatives of deceased.

James E. O'Donnell is administrator for the will of the late James McNabb, petitioned the court to erect a tombstone on the grave of the late James McNabb in St. Patrick's cemetery. The respondents were three sisters of deceased who are heirs to his property, while another sister in whose lot deceased was buried favored the petition. William A. Hogan in behalf of the three heirs opposed the petition, while Judge Frederick Fisher favored it.

It seems that the late James McNabb was buried in his sister's lot in St. Patrick's cemetery, while he himself owned a lot in the same cemetery. The respondents are in favor of errecting a tombstone but on the lot owned by deceased and not where he is buried.

The following wills were presented in the uncontested session: Agnes C. Redhead, Lowell; Franklin Nickerson, Lowell; John H. Dunn, Lowell; William Hogan, Chelmsford; Harriet M. Ellinwood, Chelmsford; Fannie D. Ricker, Chelmsford; May Murphy, Chelmsford; John O. Gillie, Chelmsford; James A. McGuire, Chelmsford; Maria Green, Cambridge.

The administrations granted were the following: Edwidge Chaput, Lowell; Lillian J. Frost, Lowell; Alfred Geddes, Lowell; Daniel A. O'Hearn, Lowell.

LOWELL POLICE DEFEATED BY LYNN POLICE AND PROTESTED GAME

The Lowell police baseball team went to Lynn this morning and were trounced by the Lynn City aggregation by a score of 18 to 7. Many of the members of the local department and local sports occupied the special car to Lynn, but they returned home disappointed. The local boys have protested the game.

IDEAL WEATHER

CLEVELAND, O., May 21.—Ideal weather conditions prevailed when the polls opened for today's primary election. Numerous wagers have been posted making Roosevelt and Harman slight favorites.

EARLY VOTE HEAVY

CINCINNATI, May 21.—Fair weather brought out an unusually large primary vote early today. It was estimated that between 25,000 and 30,000 voters will be polled. Most interest apparently was in the outcome of the republican primary.

LAST MINUTE FIGHT

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 21.—A last minute fight is being made by the Fatt and Roosevelt organizations to elect delegates to the county convention which will send 15 delegates to the state convention.

VOTE CAST EARLY

AKRON, O., May 21.—With ideal weather a large vote had been polled this city and Summit county at 6 o'clock today. It is estimated by the election board that 50 per cent. of the republican vote and 25 per cent. of the democratic vote had been polled.

THE STORY OF THE CRIME THAT RICHESON COMMITTED

Avis Linnell Came to Her Death by Taking Poison That He Gave Her

BOSTON, May 21.—The crime for which Clarence Virgil Thompson Richeson, at the time of his arrest pastor of the Immanuel church of Cambridge, was sentenced to die in the electric chair, was the confessed murder of his former sweetheart, 19 years old, Avis Linnell, of Hyannis, a pupil in the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

The girl stood in the way of the minister's marriage to Miss Violet Edmonds, a society girl and heiress of Brookline, both through an engagement which still existed between the two and because of a condition in which Miss Linnell found herself. The girl was deceived into taking a poison given her by Richeson, which she believed would remedy that condition and died in her rooms at the Young Women's Christian Association, on the evening of October 14, 1910. On that day invitations had been issued for the wedding ceremony that was to unite Rev. Mr. Richeson and Miss Edmonds.

As pastor of a small church in the Cape Cod town of Hyannis two years before, the handsome and eloquent minister, then 33 years old, had been attracted to Avis Linnell, who was an exceptionally pretty girl of 17 years. She lived with her parents, her father, Edgar Linnell, being a contractor and builder. It was her ambition to be a school teacher and she was attending the state normal school at Hyannis.

Joined the Church

Miss Linnell joined Richeson's church, was baptized by him and became a member of the church choir. In a short time, early in 1909, Miss Linnell was displaying a diamond ring and confided in her girl friends that she was to be married to the minister the following October. Abandoning her plan of becoming a school teacher, Miss Linnell began preparations for her wedding. Some of her trousseau was completed and the two paid a visit to Rev. Edward S. Cotton of Brewster, who was asked to officiate at the ceremony.

Friction developed between Richeson and his deacons in June, 1910, over the young minister's impetuous manner and his violent language. There was also a question as to the loss of $50 in money which had been left in a parishioner in the pastor's study.

The minister declared he had been robbed of the money. Shortly afterwards it was learned he had sent a similar sum by money order from a nearby town to a woman in Salt Lake City, Utah. His resignation followed and he accepted a call to the Emmanuel Baptist church of Cambridge.

When Richeson went to Cambridge

Miss Linnell went to the Conservatory of Music in Boston. She was induced to attend the conservatory by the minister in the idea that by the cultivation of her voice, which had given signs of much promise in the Hyannis church choir, she would better fit herself to become his wife. On the minister's recommendation the girl took a room at the Young Women's Christian Association quarters on Warren street, Boston. She proved a diligent student and continued her church work by teaching in the Sunday school of Tremont Temple, the leading Baptist church of the city. There were frequent meetings between Miss Linnell and Richeson.

Courted Miss Edmonds

The successes which the young preacher attained in his larger sphere of usefulness made a marked impression upon him. Surrounded by influential friends and associates his ambitions widened. He began to pay court to Miss Violet Edmonds of Brookline, the daughter of Moses Grant Edmonds, a prominent Baptist layman and trustee of the Newton Theological Seminary, from which Richeson had been graduated. Miss Edmonds was prominent socially and was wealthy in her own right, as well as entitled to share in the estate of some $88,000 left by her grandfather. Entrance to the exclusively home of the Edmonds had been easy to the minister as the pastor of the church the family attended, and in a short time he was accepted as suitor for the daughter's hand.

At the same time Richeson was meeting Miss Linnell as formerly. But one day he borrowed the diamond ring he had given her, on the pretense that the stone needed resetting. He did not return it. Eventually the newspapers announced the engagement of Rev. Mr. Richeson and Miss Violet Edmonds. The Linnell family demanded an explanation. The minister promptly declared the story a "newspaper fake" and was believed.

The invitations to the wedding of Richeson and Miss Edmonds were sent out the afternoon of Saturday, October 14. That same afternoon Richeson dined with Avis Linnell at a little restaurant in the Back Bay. While there the girl appeared depressed. At times tears rolled down her cheeks. When she returned to her lodging place, however, she seemed cheerful, although quickly excusing herself and hurrying away to her room.

Greens Were Heard.

Groans were heard coming from a bathroom of the association quarters shortly after 7 o'clock that evening. The door was broken in and Miss Linnell was found partially unconscious and apparently in great agony. Half an hour later she died without regaining consciousness.

A belief that the girl had committed suicide was at first general, but her family were disposed to discredit the report, and a thorough investigation was made.

Soon after the girl died, it was learned, that someone had telephoned to Richeson, as the girl's nearest friend, and informed him of the circumstances. He coldly denied at first that he knew the girl at all. Then finally, admitting that she had been a member of his former parish in Hyannis, he suggested that her brother-in-law in Bridgewater be notified. Before hanging up the receiver he asked: "Did she say 'anything' before she died?"

The theory of suicide was dispelled when the real conditions surrounding the death of Miss Linnell were made known. The girl had been sitting in a chair with her feet in a tub of hot water while beside her was a "fresh change of clothing. The autopsy revealed the fact that she had taken a dose of poison and the conclusion was drawn that she had done so in the innocent belief that it would remedy a condition that later would be a cause of great embarrassment.

On the day following the girl's death Rev. Mr. Richeson preached what was to be his last sermon in the Cambridge church, and in his prayer referred briefly to the death of a near friend. That afternoon, dining with a member of his parish in Somerville, he was able to eat but little and spent much time on a couch in apparent mental misery. He explained that he was overcome by the recent death of a "dear friend." That night he went to the home of Moses Grant Edmonds in Brookline, father of the girl to whom he was to be married a week or so later, and there remained in seclusion through the next few days preceding his arrest.

Scores of police and newspaper men took up the mystery of the death of Avis Linnell. It seemed apparent at the outset that the belief in a suicide theory was one which the murderer had planned to foster. Given the crime and the reason for it the next step was to find the man responsible for the condition of the victim. The police had not far to seek and the newspapers made no pretense at mystery in directing their suspicions. The girl had but one sweetheart and she made no concealment of her affection for Richeson.

Evidence Accumulates

In it's week's time material evidence began to accumulate. A woman declared that Richeson had telephoned from her home making an appointment for the afternoon of October 14 with someone at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms. Richeson's landlady admitted her boarder had returned a bowl to her with the remark that she had better wash it thoroughly as it had been used to mix paste which had contained poison. The most damaging evidence, however, came from Wm. Hahn, a druggist of Newton Centre and a friend of Richeson. According to Hahn, Richeson came to him four days before the Linnell girl died and bought a considerable quantity of cyanide of potassium, explaining that he wanted it "to kill a dog which was about to have puppies." A Cambridge confectioner told of Richeson coming to his store on the afternoon Miss Linnell died and purchasing a peculiar shaped jar of candy, identical with a jar found in Miss Linnell's room. The minister had taken a Boston bound car in front of the candy store. A woman came to the police and told of seeing the pastor and the weeping girl eating together in a restaurant on the same afternoon. As a result of this information the police felt warranted in taking definite action.

The evening of October 14, Chief Inspector Dugan and members of his force went to the home of Mr. Edmonds on Devon street, in Brookline, to arrest Rev. Mr. Richeson on the suspicion that he was guilty of murder. Admission to the house was denied although the hour was early. The police had no search warrant and did not feel justified in breaking into the magnificent residence upon the unoccupied.

The evening of October 14, Chief Inspector Dugan and members of his force went to the home of Mr. Edmonds on Devon street, in Brookline, to arrest Rev. Mr. Richeson on the suspicion that he was guilty of murder. Admission to the house was denied although the hour was early. The police had no search warrant and did not feel justified in breaking into the magnificent residence upon the unoccupied.

The police had even at this time far from a "satisfactory" case against Richeson. The container of the poison which Miss Linnell had taken could not be found. It was believed some vial or box might have been left in the pocket of Miss Linnell's bathrobe, which had been buried with her. The body was disinterred in Hyannis on October 24 and brought to Boston for a post mortem examination by five prominent physicians. The cause of death was confirmed but no additional evidence was found.

At the same time the police began an investigation into the life of Richeson. Every important act of his life from the date of his birth at Rose Hill, Va., 33 years ago, until his advent in Cambridge was gone into. It was found that he went to school early at Amherst courthouse, Va., high school, then went to Carrollton, Mo., to work for a brother and attend a local academy. Three years later he went to Liberty, Mo., and entered William Jewell College to study for the ministry. While a student he supplied pulpits in Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.; El Paso, Tex.; Louisville, Ky., and other places.

Richeson's life had not been an uneventful one. It was learned, and many tales were related of his entanglements with young women. At Liberty, Mo., while in William Jewell college, he had been engaged to the daughter of a professor. The young woman lent Richeson money to pursue his studies and up to the time of his coming to Hyannis believed she was to be his wife. In the meantime she developed tuberculosis, which still necessitates her remaining in Salt Lake City, Utah. The bright ray of light in Richeson's career appeared to be that he repaid the money loaned him as fast as possible. The final amounts were sent from Hyannis shortly before he came to Cambridge.

Richeson was expelled from William Jewell college for cheating in examinations shortly after he had been ordained at the First Baptist church in St. Louis. For a time he worked as a conductor on the street cars of the latter city and was prominent in a strike of street car men, his eloquence making him a natural leader.

While at Budd Park Baptist church in Kansas City, Richeson became involved with a widow. One Sunday she appeared unexpectedly during the church service. Richeson, upon seeing her, fell in a fit. A brother of the woman called at Richeson's rooms and the young minister left town suddenly. A note to the deacons explained that he had been driven away by three jealous women.

At another church three young women interrupted the service one Sunday. Simultaneously rising each inquired of the minister if he intended to carry out his promise to marry her. The sensation led the deacons of the church to write for the pastor's resignation.

Richeson entered Newton Theological Seminary in the fall of 1906 and graduated in 1909. During his course he earned money by working in restaurants and shoe stores. He was called to the Hyannis church in 1909 and remained there until June, 1910, when he resigned to accept the pastorate of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge. Rumors of his interest in women while a preacher in Massachusetts have been current. Miss Edmonds upon the arrest of her fiance, left Cambridge to escape publicity and, it is said, has been engaged in charity work.

Interest in the case was intensified on December 29 when it became known that Richeson had mutilated himself in his cell at the Charles street jail.

The public apparently lost all sympathy for the prisoner following his strange act, which was interpreted as a confession of guilt. At Hyannis, the home of Avis Linnell, the minister was hung in effigy, with a placard on the dummy reading "Guilty. Read Luke 17:21." In Boston a conference of Baptist ministers was called and Richeson was formally deprived of his title of reverend.

"Deeply penitent before my sins, and earnestly desiring as far as in my power to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted. I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit of leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however degraded and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial of her whose pure young life I have destroyed."

"Under the lashings of remorse I have suffered and am suffering the tortures of the damned. In this I find a measure of comfort. In my mortal anguish I recognize there is still, by the mercy of the Master, some remnant of the divine spark of goodness still lingering with me. I could wish to live only because within some prison's walls I might in some small measure redeem my sinful past, help some despairing soul, and at last find favor with my God."

"You are instructed to deliver this to the district attorney or to the judge of the court. Sincerely yours, Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Richeson was taken into court on January 3, pleaded guilty of the murder of Avis Linnell and was sentenced to be electrocuted at the Charles street state prison in the week beginning May 19.

A negro murderer, Henry H. Butts, has been the constant companion of Richeson since his act of self-mutilation. The negro has taken a certain pride in serving Richeson, who has become so attached to the attentions of Butts that the negro has been allowed to remain, although his crime calls for imprisonment at Charlestown.

The counsel for the condemned man bent their efforts during the past few weeks to securing support for a petition for a commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment. The ground alleged is insanity due to abnormal traits, which according to the lawyers would not constitute legal insanity, but have a unique character of their own warranting clemency.

Richeson, on April 24, sent a petition for a commutation of sentence to Gov. Foss.

"I respectfully request that the sentence of death pronounced against me by the superior court for the County of Suffolk be commuted to imprisonment for life, and I leave the presentation of this request and the reasons in support thereof with my counsel, Clarence V. T. Richeson."

Simultaneously with the presentation of the petition, Counsel William A. Morse and Philip R. Dunbar of Boston, and John L. Lee, of Lynchburg, Va., filed numerous depositions relating to evidences of insanity on the part of members of the Richeson family of Richeson being inside. They therefore remained on guard through the night frequently knocking upon doors and windows and calling upon the occupants to open and admit the officers.

The weary vigil was kept up until daylight when a maid who appeared in the kitchen was prevailed upon to notify Mr. Edmonds that the officers were outside and would break in if the door was not opened at once. At 7 o'clock the police were admitted. Richeson was found in bed. He was ordered to dress and accompany the officers. Before leaving the house he took in his arms Miss Violet Edmonds, who was weeping hysterically. "Do not worry, he said, "everything will come out all right." The minister came out of the house in the murky dawn, passing between two rows of police, newspaper men, and curious neighbors and was taken to police headquarters in Boston in a taxicab to be arraigned.

The case was set for October 31 for a hearing and Richeson was committed to the Charles Street jail without bail. Within a few days the wedding invitations of the minister and Miss Edmonds, summoning the guests to the Edmonds home on October 31, were recalled.

Before the day of the hearing arrived a special session of the grand jury was called and an indictment charging murder in five counts was found. Richeson was taken into court to plead to the charge of murder on the day he was to have been married to Miss Edmonds. The trial of the case was set for January 15.

Richeson had early written to his church asking that judgment be suspended until after the grand jury sitting. On November 1st he forwarded his resignation, but the church on November 6, after a stormy meeting, refused to accept it. Later a second letter of resignation was sent and accepted on November 24.

The police had even at this time far from a "satisfactory" case against Richeson. The container of the poison which Miss Linnell had taken could not be found. It was believed some vial or box might have been left in the pocket of Miss Linnell's bathrobe, which had been buried with her. The body was disinterred in Hyannis on October 24 and brought to Boston for a post mortem examination by five prominent physicians. The cause of death was confirmed but no additional evidence was found.

At the same time the police began an investigation into the life of Richeson. Every important act of his life from the date of his birth at Rose Hill, Va., 33 years ago, until his advent in Cambridge was gone into. It was found that he went to school early at Amherst courthouse, Va., high school, then went to Carrollton, Mo., to work for a brother and attend a local academy. Three years later he went to Liberty, Mo., and entered William Jewell College to study for the ministry. While a student he supplied pulpits in Kansas City, Mo.; St. Louis, Mo.; El Paso, Tex.; Louisville, Ky., and other places.

Richeson's life had not been an uneventful one. It was learned, and many tales were related of his entanglements with young women. At Liberty, Mo., while in William Jewell college, he had been engaged to the daughter of a professor. The young woman lent Richeson money to pursue his studies and up to the time of his coming to Hyannis believed she was to be his wife.

While at Budd Park Baptist church in Kansas City, Richeson became involved with a widow. One Sunday she appeared unexpectedly during the church service. Richeson, upon seeing her, fell in a fit. A brother of the woman called at Richeson's rooms and the young minister left town suddenly.

A note to the deacons explained that he had been driven away by three jealous women.

At another church three young women interrupted the service one Sunday. Simultaneously rising each inquired of the minister if he intended to carry out his promise to marry her. The sensation led the deacons of the church to write for the pastor's resignation.

Richeson entered Newton Theological Seminary in the fall of 1906 and graduated in 1909. During his course he earned money by working in restaurants and shoe stores. He was called to the Hyannis church in 1909 and remained there until June, 1910, when he resigned to accept the pastorate of the Immanuel Baptist church in Cambridge. Rumors of his interest in women while a preacher in Massachusetts have been current. Miss Edmonds upon the arrest of her fiance, left Cambridge to escape publicity and, it is said, has been engaged in charity work.

Interest in the case was intensified on December 29 when it became known that Richeson had mutilated himself in his cell at the Charles street jail.

The public apparently lost all sympathy for the prisoner following his strange act, which was interpreted as a confession of guilt. At Hyannis, the home of Avis Linnell, the minister was hung in effigy, with a placard on the dummy reading "Guilty. Read Luke 17:21." In Boston a conference of Baptist ministers was called and Richeson was formally deprived of his title of reverend.

Richeson confessed his guilt in a statement written by himself on January 3 and given out by his counsel on January 6. The confession was addressed to his counsel and read:

"Deeply penitent before my sins, and earnestly desiring as far as in my power to make atonement, I hereby confess that I am guilty of the offense of which I stand indicted. I am moved to this course by no inducement of self-benefit of leniency. Heinous as is my crime, God has not wholly abandoned me, and my conscience and manhood, however degraded and blighted, will not admit of my still further wronging by a public trial of her whose pure young life I have destroyed."

THE BODY OF RICHESON CLAIMED BY HIS BROTHER

The Burial Will Take Place in Virginia—Services Will be Conducted by Boston Pastor

BOSTON, May 21.—Douglas Richeson, son of Chicago, brother of the former clergymen, Clarence V. T. Richeson, who paid the penalty for the murder of Avis Linnell in the electric chair at the state prison just after midnight, claimed the body today. Before the remains could be turned over to relatives, it was necessary that Dr. Magrath, medical examiner, of Suffolk county, perform an autopsy as provided by law. This was planned to do during the forenoon at the county morgue, where the body was taken after the electrocution.

Reports that the brain and other organs of the executed man might be given to medical institutions and medical specialists for examination and study were declared untrue by Dr. Magrath. The law requires that an autopsy be performed on the remains of all persons who die in the electric chair but further than to carry out the legal provisions the remains will not be disturbed by the surgeon's knife, Dr. Magrath said.

Richeson's body will be taken back to his old home in Virginia, if his wishes are carried out and will be buried in the little cemetery on Richeson mountain in the town of Amherst Courthouse. The last words as the remains are committed to the grave will be said by the Rev. Herbert Johnson of Boston who acted as Richeson's spiritual adviser and who was with the condemned man to the very end. One of the last requests made by Richeson was that Mr. Johnson accompany the body to Virginia and the clergyman consented to do so.

When he goes south Mr. Johnson will have a double mission to perform. He will not only go for the purpose of rendering the communion service but he will also carry the last message from the executed murderer to his loved ones at his former home.

No relatives had seen the condemned man after he entered the state prison but Richeson bore no ill will for himself, while anxious to see his brother and sister who were in Boston during the week, engaged against their visiting the death house.

"I am afraid the shock will be too great. I fear the memory would always linger with them," he told the Rev. Mr. Johnson the day before the execution.

Both the Rev. Mr. Johnson and William A. Morse, Richeson's attorney, had numerous missions to perform today. Richeson left no will but in conversations with these men during the hours preceding his death he gave directions as to the disposition of his personal effects and asked Mr. Johnson and Mr. Morse to carry them out. His library, Richeson left to clergymen, friends and other articles of a similar nature to others. Richeson left no public statement. He did, however, leave a personal communication for his spiritual adviser. This was handed to Mr. Johnson after the electrocution and the latter has not seen fit to make any of its contents public. During the days preceding the electrocution Richeson had discussed the details of the murder of Avis Linnell, the Iyannis music student, with the Rev. Mr. John-

Just Bought Aeroplane
From Wright Bros.

XENIA, O., May 21.—Fred J. Southard of Minneapolis, Minn., an amateur aviator, fell 160 feet at the Wright aviation field, near Osborne, early today and was killed instantly. Southard, who was 40 years old, had just bought the aeroplane from the Wright brothers. He obtained the keys to the hangar after he had been refused permission to take the aeroplane out without further experience. He fell just six minutes after he had begun the first flight alone. His body was badly crushed.

WEST CENTRALVILLE PEOPLE WANT AN ADDITION BUILT TO GREENHALGE SCHOOL

The members of the municipal council held a hearing in the Greenhalge school hall in Engell street last night on the petition of the residents of that district for an addition to the school. Even though the attendance was not very large the facts were fully brought out that an addition is very much needed in order to satisfy the wants of 1907, when St. Louis' parochial school opened, the attendance at the Greenhalge dropped to 416, but it has grown since and the present number of pupils is 617 with all the rooms filled to overflowing as well as two extra rooms in the assembly hall, which are separated by cloth partitions. Mr. McKenzie closed by saying no was replied $72,000, and he said he be-favor of the petition. He told of how people living opposite the school were forced to send their children to the Billings street school, nearly a half mile away. He said the Varnum, Lakeview avenue and Billings street schools are also fairly well filled. When asked how much the Greenhalge school cost, Mr. Whitcomb replied $72,000, and he said he be-of the children of West Centralville, whose number is increasing every day.

The building has ten class rooms and this being inadequate for the large number of children who desired admission to the school, those in charge were forced to add two rooms by dividing the assembly hall with cloth partitions. Even with these additional rooms the school is still too small as a large number of children are being refused admission so that a great many who live within a stone's throw of the Greenhalge building are forced to attend class at the Billings street school, nearly a half mile away. St. Louis' school is also well filled, and many children are forced to cross the river and attend St. Joseph's college and St. Joseph's convent. All these facts were brought out at the hearing last night.

THE MEETING

Mayor O'Donnell opened the hearing at 8:10 o'clock and he announced that one of the petitioners, Mr. Thomas F. Garvey, could not be present having been called out of town on account of the death of his sister, Mr. McKenzie's wife.

The first speaker was Mr. Chas. T. McKenzie of the school board, who said the school committee advocated additional rooms. He then went along giving a brief history of the Greenhalge school, saying it was opened in 1906 with the intention of using seven rooms. In September of the same year he said the ten rooms in the building were filled with an attendance of 470 pupils. In September he said it could have been built more cheaply, and when asked if he thought the building was all right in every way, he said he did not like the heating system, the plumbing and ventilation, and also stated there was great waste of space by cutting up into small rooms which are unnecessary.

COMMISSIONER CUMMINGS

Commissioner Cummings said the council would give the residents of West Centralville as much school accommodation as is needed even if they were forced to erect a temporary building in the yard. Mr. Whitcomb then said if the St. Louis' school does not double within a short time, the city will be forced to put up a new school. He also said he did not believe in small school houses for as he said they are more expensive and less satisfactory to gather from them.

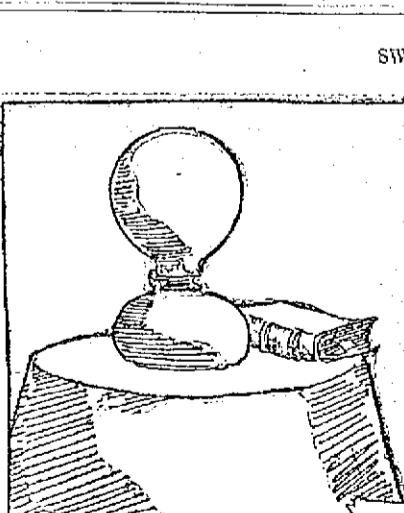

"I hope the building of small school buildings will cease," said Mr. Whitcomb. "It has ceased in many other cities. Such a system costs very much more for the service of janitors. The expensiveness of Lowell schools is due largely to the fact that we have such a lot of two and four-room buildings to keep up."

"As an illustration of what I mean, let me cite the Pawtucket school, where Mr. Barry gets $2000 a year. He has six rooms. He is paid $33 a year to look after each room. Each of his teachers gets $700. The cost therefore is $1623 a year per room. On the other hand, Mr. Calahan at the Butler school has 16 rooms. He receives $2000 yearly or $125 per room. His teachers also get $700 a year. The cost for teaching in the larger school is a vital need, and he hoped the commissioners would look into the matter in the right way.

is therefore $825 a year, almost $200 less a year a room than in the small school."

PRINCIPAL WOOD

Mr. Frederick Wood, principal of the school, spoke about in the same way as old Supt. Whitcomb and he added that the pupils of St. Louis' school received each year, in a way accounts for the occupancy of every room of his school. He said the parochial school was filled to overflowing, and inasmuch as his district was growing every day, matters will be still worse in a short time. He also stated that one man alone had built thirty houses in the vicinity of the church and when those houses are occupied, there will be another increase.

The others who spoke in favor of the petition were Messrs. William Gallagher, Marcel Chenevert, Mr. Minahan and others.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

"There's a corking good show at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and you ought not to miss it especially if there are any more seats in the region of your heart for there is ample opportunity for you to laugh them away."

Kenney and Hollis are right there with the tickles and if they don't extract a laugh it's up to you to see a doctor. They present their original sketch, "The College Students," and that are just too funny for anything. They have a whole lot of new stuff and they're coining new phrases and happy speeches all the time. Kenney is nature's sole agent for the funny stuff and it has been said about him that once upon a time he made a wooden Indian laugh. To explain what Kenney and Hollis do is an utter impossibility but here's a little tip that we are authorized to give you and the public in general, if it hurts you to laugh keep away from the Merrimack Square theatre for Kenney and Hollis are there.

Of course you know all about The Temple Players. They have been at this cosy little theatre for three weeks and, if you'll permit just a little more space, they have made good. Sing, you say? Well you just ought to hear that bunching and they do so many clever things and do them so well that honest to goodness, Agnes, you can't afford to miss 'em. They are singing southern melodies this week and Jim Thompson who came here from "Virginia" some hundred years ago says that The Temple Players have touched an old home chord in the vicinity of his heart and when it comes to singing "Old Black Joe," he says they have all the other singers drowning in Chesapeake bay. Miss Grace Hawthorne is the leading soloist and we haven't heard a better singer in Lowell for many a day. She has a beautiful voice, great control, and it's a great big treat to hear her sing. She is heard in a number of pleasing songs and it must not be understood that she is without good support. "Bamboo Baby Dance," assisted by the entire company, is one of her best numbers, and the duo in which she and James Byrnes, Jr., work, called "How Do You Do, Miss Lindy?" is another of the many bright things of the sketch. Jack Allman is heard in "Garden of My Heart," and he sings it especially well. Assisted by Miss Mae Lawless and Miss Josephine Barry, he introduces a clever mixture of song and dancing. George Lewis, in "Old Black Joe," with echo effect in the chorus, is another of the feature numbers, while Miss Winifred Gilhaine's dance number is also most acceptable. "Moonlight Love," by Miss Frankie Wood, brings out a new feature that's most enjoyable, and Miss Helen Potter's "Nicois" number, "When Grandma Was a Girl," is especially pleasing. The concluding feature, "The Blue and the Gray," with tableau effect, is a fitting close to an excellent offering.

Kenyon, Allen and Kenyon, comedy jugglers, are in a class by themselves. They introduce many difficult feats in juggling and balancing, and are clever enough to bring some good comedy with their offering.

Erin Reese, violinist, is a wonder. He plays a silver violin and it is the only one of its kind played in public.

Arthur Wesley, baritone, is heard in some of the latest and most popular song hits of the season.

The photo-plays for the first three days of the week are in keeping with the high standard of the past and add not a little to the general enjoyment of the entire bill. For the last three days of the week, "The Suffragette Parade in New York City," and "When Kings Were Men," both excellent picture portrayals, will be featured.

KEITH'S LE PALACE D'ART

Le Palace D'Art, which was formerly known as Keith's theatre, in Bridge street, was crowded to the doors yesterday afternoon and last evening and there was good reason for the large attendance for the management furnished a program of vaudeville and moving pictures which is difficult to beat. There were five motion picture films and several vaudeville acts.

The head line for the week is the grand opera quartet, who appear in roles of negro melodies. They are possessed of excellent voices and render many pleasing selections, among the songs being "My Old Kentucky Home" by Miss von Brocklin. Miss Isel's singing caused vociferous applause and the other members of the quartet were good.

The Barrett brothers are good dancers and they take a very prominent part in the vaudeville acts. When it comes to comedy Miles and Raymond have a skit that's a wonder. Bill and Brady appear in a juggling act and the manner in which they throw things in the air and at each other is marvelous.

The motion pictures are instructive and interesting.

The program is given twice daily and there is a change of pictures every Thursday.

THEATRE VOYONS

A picture shown today at the Theatre Voyons is most interesting to the general public but more especially to those of Canadian birth. It was taken the past winter by the Vitagraph company under the direction of the governor general of Canada and shows many scenes of great interest in the dominion. The houses of parliament, the privy council in session, several of the high dignitaries, the governor general and his family, and last but not least a brilliant scene on the Royal Ice rink with members of the royal family exhibiting their skill on the steel blades. "The Orphans of the Plains," a Pathé western is a hummer and it surely provides enough excitement for those who love it.

THE LOWELL KASINO

The Lowell Kasino, one of the finest dance halls in New England, will open on May 29, with a party conducted by the Idle Hour campers.

For weeks a large force of workmen has been engaged in the construction of this hall, which is in Thorndike street, just to the south of the old George mansion on an elevation overlooking the South common. Nothing has been left undone to make the place suitable for its purpose. The best quality of timber has been used, particularly on the floor, which will have no superior in the country, according to the contractors.

The Kasino is right at the gate of the Highlands, and from that section alone will come a patronage sufficient to make the venture a profitable one. It will be the ambition of the proprietors, Messrs. Cushing and Dunker, to conduct a strictly high class dancing.

During the summer months, the place should be especially attractive, as there is no cooler spot hereabouts than this. An orchestra of seven pieces will provide the music.

JURY RETURNS VERDICT OF $9000 FOR LAMARRE

Plaintiff Was Injured While at Work on Boiler House of Massachusetts Mills

In superior court this morning the jury in the case of Alexis Lamarre vs. Guarantee Construction Co., returned a sealed verdict in the sum of $9,000 for the plaintiff. The case was an action of tort brought by Mr. Lamarre who while at work on the erection of the boiler house of the Massachusetts mill, was badly injured in the head by the fall of a heavy hammer. The ad damnum was $20,000. Another suit was brought by the same against contractor Patrick Conlon, but in this case the judge ordered a verdict for the defense.

Potter vs. Erlick
The next case to go on trial was that of Charles M. Potter vs. Ada Erlick, Jennie S. Erlick and Louis K. Erlick in an action of contract in the tit.

TOWN IS IN DANGER OF DESTRUCTION

Many Buildings Taken From Foundations

LACROSSE, Wis., May 21.—The town of Black River Falls, which was nearly destroyed by the bursting of a dam one year ago and which has been partly rebuilt by the state, is today in danger of destruction from the flood waters of the Black river. Practically all of the rebuilt main street is under water and a number of buildings have been taken from their foundations. The river has risen eight feet in the last 24 hours and is still rising.

UNITARIAN ASSOCIATION

BOSTON, May 21.—A large amount of business was transacted at today's session of the annual convention of the American Unitarian Assn., which was held in Tremont temple. Rev. Samuel Elliot, D. D., president of the association delivered an address. Rev. Louis Wilson, the treasurer, read his yearly report which showed gratifying gains.

The devotional service was conducted by Rev. Dissenbach of Hartford, Conn. The election of officers was scheduled to take place this afternoon.

MURDERER INQUIRES ABOUT RICHESON

DENVER, May 21.—Oscar Cook, murderer, condemned to die in November, rose from his cot in the condemned cell in the county jail at midnight and hoarsely called to his guard:

"Has that preacher Richeson been electrocuted yet? I can't sleep thinking about him."

Through the night as the guard tramped the corridor the condemned man clung to the bars of his cell.

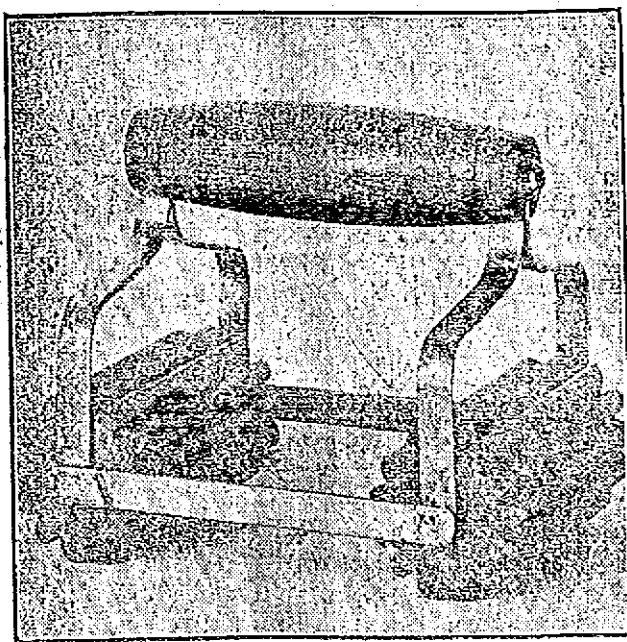

"Can't you telephone the newspapers and find out if he died like a man or a cur? See if he had to be carried," he asked. "It is easier than to be hanged. Do you think there is any chance of the state putting in a chair before November?"

Cook refused to return to bed, declaring that horrible nightmares filled his dreams.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

BOSTON, May 21.—Following her arrest on a charge of violating the liquor laws, Mrs. Mary Finch, a widow, committed suicide today by taking poison. A quantity of liquor was seized at Mrs. Finch's home during a raid and she was arrested. The woman was bailed shortly after her arrival at the police station. After returning to her home she swallowed poison.

REDISTRICTING BILL PASSED

BOSTON, May 21.—The special committee's bill apportioning the state into 16 new congressional districts was passed to be engrossed in the house today with a few changes. The alterations place Mansfield with Attleboro and Abington and Rockland with Brockton. As the senate approved the bill without these changes the measure goes back to that branch for approval. It is expected to reach the governor the last of the week.

According to the political preferences of the voters at the last election the new bill will give Massachusetts eleven republican and five democratic congressmen.

FUNERAL NOTICES

CONWAY—The funeral of the late Miss Delta A. Conway will take place Thursday morning at 5 o'clock from her home, No. 118 Lawrence street. A mass of requiem will be sung at St. Peter's church at nine o'clock. Burial will take place in St. Patrick's cemetery. Undertakers J. F. O'Donnell & Sons in charge.

GALLAGHER—The funeral of the late John J. Gallagher will take place at 8:30 o'clock, Wednesday morning, from his home, 29 Lyon street. High mass of requiem will be celebrated at 9 o'clock in St. Peter's church. Burial in St. Patrick's cemetery. Undertaker C. H. Molley in charge.

JOHNSON—Died in this city May 21 at her late home, 122 Hale street, Eliza A. Johnson, aged 71 years and 9 months. The funeral will take place Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, 122 Hale street. Burial will take place in the Edson cemetery. Friends invited without further notice. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Undertaker John J. O'Connell.

REPORTED PASTORLESS AT ASSEMBLY OF PRESBYTERIANS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21.—After the surprising declaration that there are 2,000 churches in the United States "pastorless and shepherdless" had been made in the general assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church today, resolutions were adopted urging that all Presbyterian commissioners (laymen) keep in close touch with young men who might be candidates for the ministry.

Rev. Joseph W. Coburn of Philadelphia, discussing a minister's "living chances" declared:

"We hear advice to the effect that a man, to be a minister, must starve. I never knew that to be true. I'll admit that the salaries are not princely, but it can't be remedied except by this very assembly."

Immediately Rev. Dr. Henry J. Brecker of Dayton, O., interrupted: "Hundreds of gray-haired men of the ministry annually are dismissed or cast aside," he said. "Men of brains, education and good records are eliminated for no other reason than they are 'too old.'"

M. E. CONFERENCE

MINNEAPOLIS, May 21.—Indications that the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church will attempt to keep to its resolution of reaching an adjournment on May 23 are evidenced in the night sessions, which were begun last night for the purpose of casting a ballot for bishops. It is probable that even with the election of one or two men today which hardly is expected by the delegates another night session will be held tonight.

Since the first ballot, on which Dr. Homer C. Stuntz was elected numerous men have headed the no election ballots for a time only to give way when it seemed that the necessary two-thirds votes of the delegates present could not be obtained.

More Foreigners Arrive—Number of Lowell People Going Away

L. C. Ford, clerk at the baggage office at the Boston & Maine depot who left this city Friday to spend a few days with his parents at Roxbury, Vt., returned to work yesterday morning. This morning he said that one inch and a half of snow fell before he left his parents' home yesterday. Mr. Ford says that twenty years ago last Saturday there was a snow storm there and six inches fell. He reports that at the present time conditions in that section of the country are very much improved and that he greatly enjoyed his little vacation.

Thirty-five immigrants arrived at the Middlesex st. depot this morning. They came here on the Fall River boat train, and while a few remained here the others went to Lawrence, Manchester and Berlin. Most of those who arrived today are Lithuanians.

Last night twenty Portuguese came here from Providence, R. I., via Boston on the 7:30 train. They were met at the depot by a large number of friends and all remained in this city. While at the depot, one of the visitors said that he was very hungry and that

BURGLARS GOT AWAY WITH $800

MERRICK, N. Y., May 21.—Burglars for the fourth time in a few months blew up the safe of Postmaster Birch early today and got away with $800 in cash and stamps. The safe, a new one, weighed a ton. They wheeled it out of the office into the street, piled bags of horse feed over it and blew it to pieces. On their first visit the burglars found a small safe and blew the door open. Birch put a new door on it and on the next visit they wrecked the safe entirely. Birch then bought his ton safe, which was supposed to be burglar proof. On their third visit, a few weeks ago, the burglars were only able to get the outer door open but this morning they put in a double charge of nitro glycerine.

RICHESON PAID DEATH PENALTY AT THE STATE PRISON TODAY WAS RESIGNED TO FATE

BOSTON, May 21.—Clarence V. T. Richezon went to his death in the electric chair at the Charlestown state prison early this morning and paid the last penalty for the murder of Avis Linnell like a man.

It was a tragic but none the less remarkable contrast to his ill-spent life. Three shocks were necessary before the self-confessed poisoner was officially pronounced dead.

His last words were in response to a question from the Rev. Herbert Johnson: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?"

With clear and distinct enunciation alternately collected up to the very last. Even after the rubber mask-like head piece was placed over his face, leaving only his mouth uncovered, he continued to reply to the exhortations of Mr. Johnson, his spiritual adviser throughout his long period of agony and despair.

It was 12.10.02 when the electrician, holding a screen to the left of the death chair threw the switch that meant death to the condemned man. As the electricity flashed through the body, he stiffened and lurched forward. Again and again the current was turned on and then it was decided life was extinct.

Strains of Hymn

In his last moments Richezon revealed a courage which was a surprise to all who have known him during the days that preceded the execution. He entered the death cell without a tremor. His tall figure was slightly stooped, but his step was firm and did not falter.

Just before the door behind the chair was swung open the witnesses awaiting in the death chamber were startled by the strains of a hymn in which three voices were lifted up together.

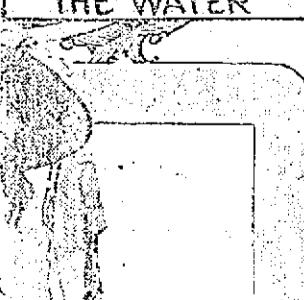

"Safe in the Arms of Jesus" rose the strains of the song in which the full clear voice of the prisoner could be distinguished above the others. While those in the death chamber sat in wed silence, the verses were intoned almost triumphantly to the end and then proceeded by Mr. Johnson and Chaplain Stebbins, and with prison guards on either side, Richezon appeared in the doorway and was led to the chair.

He seemed to realize all that was going on about him but his eyes remained fixed over the head of the row of witnesses before him.

While the guards were adjusting the midnight lighting craft affair. She will not be the fastest, but she must develop a speed of twenty-one knots an hour. Little Miss Claudia Lyons, the daughter of Cecil Lyons, republican national committeeman from Texas, not only christened the vessel, but she pulled the trigger that released the huge hull and permitted it to slide down the ways into the water. The launching was without mishap and was witnessed by distinguished guests from Washington and from Texas. For offensive fighting the Texas will be the superior of any warship yet designed for a foreign navy. In its main battery she will carry ten fourteen-inch breech loading rifles of the latest and most improved design. These guns will be mounted in pairs in electrically controlled elliptical turrets situated on the center line of the ship. It will be possible to fire all ten of these turrets on either broadside; thus giving this ship the most powerful broadside fire of any battleship in the world, as she is the first to be equipped with straps of the chair about his body the condemned man continued to talk with Mr. Johnson.

Death Warrant Read
At midnight drew near all was in readiness for the last tragic scene in the eventful life of the condemned. The witnesses had arrived and had been escorted to the parlor of the warden's house, where they were met by Warden Benjamin F. Bridges and Nathan D. Allen, deputy warden. As the law permits they were eight in number, including three physicians, the so-called legal witnesses; clergymen, a representative of the sheriff of Suffolk county and three newspaper men. No time was wasted in formalities, and as the hands of the clock edged toward 12 Prison Clerk E. A. Darling entered the room and in solemn tones read the death warrant pronouncing the extreme penalty of the law upon Richezon as the slayer of Avis Linnell.

When the reading had been completed, at a sign from Warden Bridges, the witnesses arose and forming in a line two by two, followed the warden and his deputy out of the room, down a little flight of granite stairs, through the prison office and along a narrow corridor which runs parallel to the eastern wall of this building.

No word was spoken; only the muffled tap of footsteps upon the walk broke the silence. At the end of the passage a massive iron door blocked the way and the party halted for a moment. It was a moment trying to the nerves of the strongest. Then Warden Bridges raised the gold-headed cane, which is the traditional insignia of his office on such occasions, and tapped deliberately upon the metal panel.

Message of Doom
Outside the sound jarred through the echoing corridor. The tap-tapping in the stillness became fraught with an ominous meaning. The insignificance had again taken on a horrible significance. Within the cell room the tapping must have reached the strained ears of the prisoner as he waited. To him it bore the message of doom irrevocable.

Only a few seconds elapsed and then a prison guard swung back the door and the witnesses found themselves in a second narrow corridor which passes to the left and in the rear of the three death cells. A wall cuts the passage off from the cells but the shuffling of the feet of the party might have been heard by the condemned.

At the end of the second passage the witnesses emerged into a large bare

THE STREET RAILWAY CO.

Asks Permission to Relocate Tracks

The Bay State Street railway is seeking permission to make important changes in its tracks and an order was presented at the meeting of the municipal council held this afternoon asking that the company be given a hearing on a petition dated May 14, 1912. The order reads, in part, as follows: "That the requirements as to Pawtucket and Bridge streets be changed so that the space between the inner rails of the tracks shall be four feet, six inches, with such additional width in connecting, and other curves, as safety may require, and to the satisfaction of the city engineer and superintendent of streets and the approval of the board of railroad commissioners." The company wants permission to relocate its tracks in Pine street from Liberty street to Stevens street, and to construct a turnout between Wilder and Stevens street on Pine street; to extend its present turnout on Church street 100 feet easterly, and to relocate its present turnout on Lawrence street, near Watson street, at a point about 300 feet southerly from its present location.

JIMMY MAGEE BACK IN GAME

Recovers From Injury—
Plays a Great Field-
ing Game

Jimmy Magee, Lowell's star left fielder who while at bat two weeks ago was struck on the wrist by a pitched ball, causing a bad injury that kept him on the bench until the latter part of last week when he went on the coach line, was back in the game yesterday. He took his position in the left garden and DeGroot, who has been filling in, went over to left. The outfield looked like a real one once again. Magee is one of the fastest outfielders in the league. He is strong on ground balls as well as the flies and is very fast. Anything that goes in his territory is generally nulled. He very seldom makes a misplay. On high fly balls he is fast at getting after them and many times has literally robbed batters of seemingly sure hits. With Magee back the outfield is fine. Many of the local fans are of the opinion that had Magee been in Saturday's game the ball that went in left for two bases would have been picking for Jimmy.

He celebrated his return to the game yesterday by making ten put outs, which is going some for an outfielder. Added to the number, he got one that looked good for two bases easy. The ball was hit by Maloney in the third and at the crack of the bat, Jimmy went to it and pulled it off the fence for the best catch that has been seen at the local grounds this season. At the bat Jimmy is a good hitter, but yesterday though making two perfect sacrifice hits, he did not connect with any bungles.

The fans are glad to see him back in the game and are confident that his bat will be right there after a few games.

THREE YEARS
OF MISERY

Mrs. Burnside Escaped an Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mahoningtown, Pa.—"For three years I suffered untold misery every month, and had to stay in bed the first two or three days. I also had a displacement and other ailments peculiar to women. I became so weak and run down I could scarcely walk across the floor.

"The doctor told me I would never be well unless I would undergo an operation, but I was advised by my mother to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and after I had taken four bottles I am strong and well. I have got others to take your medicine with the same good results and they cannot say enough for it."—Mrs. J. A. BURNSIDE, Mahoningtown, Pa.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials like the above prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who suffer from those distressing ills should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

In almost every neighborhood you will find women who have been restored to health by the Pinkham medicines. Many would not have a testimonial published, but would talk about their cure to another woman.

which the Christian converts as well as all foreigners in the country were exiled or beheaded. Then Japan entered upon her period of separation from the other countries of the world and became the "hermit kingdom."

From this period to the time of Perry's visit to Japan about the middle of the last century, Japan was shut off from the rest of the world, with the exception of a very curious trade carried on by the Dutch, who were subjected to all sorts of insults in keeping up even this slender point of contact with the world. But Perry's visit opened Japan to the outside world, accomplished what Russia, England, Germany and France had all tried to accomplish, only to end in total failure. Perry, however, had studied the situation carefully and his visit had been planned at an opportune time and the result was that it was successful.

Then he told of the rapid strides which Japan had made in the past 50 years, and of their wonderful military accomplishments in the war with Russia. He ended this portion of the lecture with a short consideration of the possibility of a war between the United States and Japan, in which he said that he felt that it was extremely unlikely on account of the very friendly feeling which Japan has for the United States for her part in putting an end to the Russo-Japanese war.

He closed his lecture with a very interesting comparison of the Japanese code of honor, the Bushido, with the code of honor of the knights of the middle ages, as embodied in the code

THIN BLOOD IS EASILY REMEDIED

Every Dose of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Makes New Blood and Means Renewed Health
And Strength.

People who are pale, languid, with slight palpitation of the heart, some difficulty in breathing and a tendency to fatigue are suffering from thin blood. They need only the resolution to take the right treatment and stick to it until cured. The remedy that can be relied upon is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. With every dose they make new blood and new blood means health and strength. They stop further progress of the disease and their success as a blood builder can be plainly seen after a short trial. Tired cheeks, good appetite, increased weight and strength, cheerful disposition and relief from the symptoms, all declare the general improvement in health. It is pure blood now that is traveling everywhere through this body and the benefits goes on until health is restored.

Mrs. F. J. King, of No. 124 Poplar street, Carroll, Pa., says:

"A few years ago I began to fail in health because of the poor condition of my blood. I was weak and tired out all of the time and sleepy. I had frequent sick headaches and suffered terribly with them. I lost in weight. I was so blue and down-hearted that I felt as though I was never going to be well and strong again. I couldn't sleep well and had terrible dreams. I was nervous and irritable and couldn't stand still a minute.

"My mother advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. After I had used the first box, I began to gain. I used them perhaps longer than I needed to, but continued taking them until I was certain that I was cured."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain the elements necessary to make new blood and, as the nerves get their nourishment from the blood, have been found invaluable in a wide range of diseases of the blood and nerves, such as rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fever, neuralgia, nervous debility, St. Vitus' dance and even partial paralysis and locomotor atrophy.

The remedy which gave Mrs. King complete health can be obtained at any drug store or direct from the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., at 50 cents per box; six boxes for $2.50.

CHURCH FEDERATION

MET LAST NIGHT

Adopted Amendment to the Constitution

The federation of churches held a special meeting last night in Kitson hall, to take action on the proposed amendment to the constitution, enlarging the membership of the executive committee by including the chairman of special committee. The amendment was adopted by a unanimous vote.

Rev. William A. Wood was chosen to represent the Methodist denomination on the executive committee, to take the place of Rev. H. W. Hook, who has left the city.

Rev. J. M. Craig presented the matter of a petition that had been sent to him for endorsement by the federation, in support of the Shepard interstate liquor bill. The bill is the one endorsed by most of the temperance forces and is aimed to prevent the sale of liquor under United States government license, in the "dry" states. Endorsement was voted.

Rev. C. T. Billings offered a suggestion that the federation do some work along the line of university extension. This was thought by the chairman to more properly come under the consideration of the executive committee, and discussion of the proposition was deferred until the executive meeting that followed.

Various matters were discussed at the executive session and referred to special committee to be reported upon at some later date.

POLICE ARE AT WORK
ON MURDER CASE

Body of Woman Was Found in Bungalow

CHICAGO, May 21.—Chicago and Los Angeles police are working on the theory that the woman whose body was found in a bungalow near Los Angeles May 7th was Minnie Quinn, formerly a domestic for Mrs. Harold F. McCormick of Lake Forest, Ill., and Douglas Smith of Winnetka, Ill., and that she may have been killed by C. G. Dillon, an electrician, who was crushed to death by a train near Chicago last Saturday.

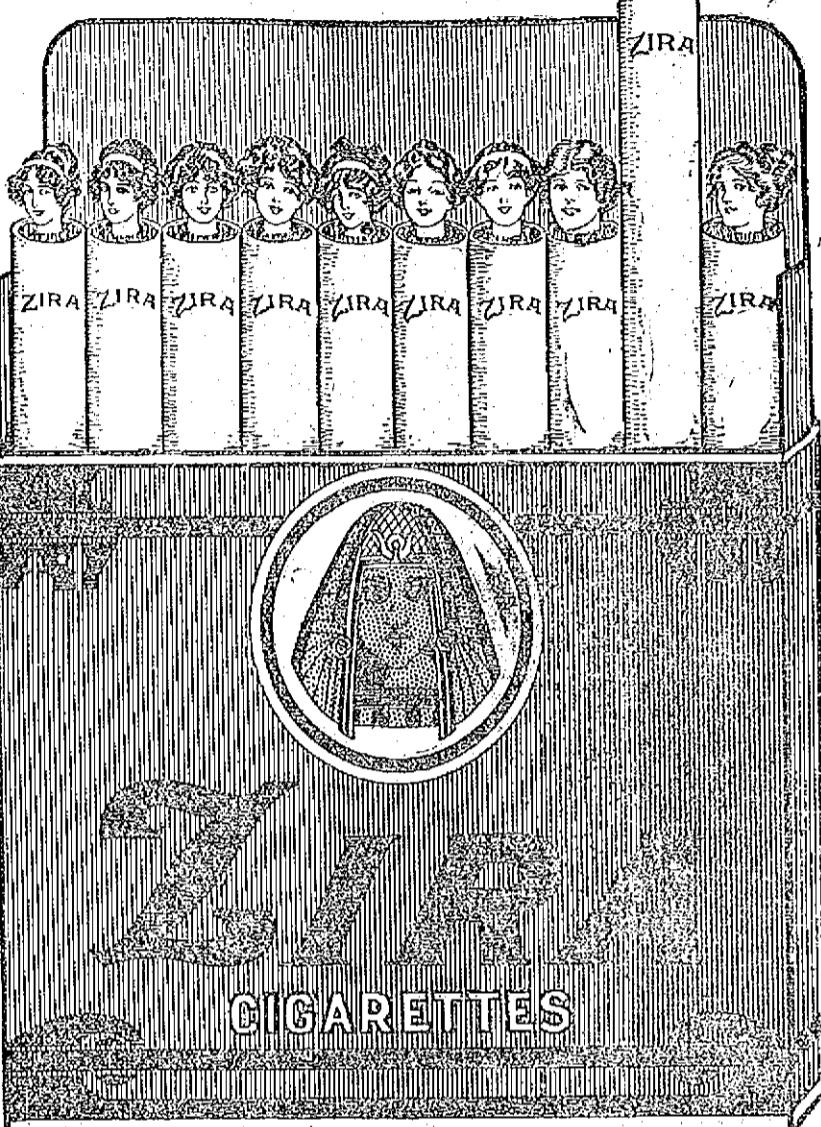

Mr. Smith yesterday partly identified a photograph of the dead woman as that of his former servant. She received calls while in his employ from a man named Dillon, who she said was an electrician and whom she declared she intended to marry.

It was announced that at the next meeting Deputy Supreme Governor Viola McCarthy of Lawrence will pay an official visit. Several members made very interesting remarks on the good of the order.

Highland Union Lodge of Rebekahs, No. 171, held its regular meeting last night. After the regular meeting, an entertainment was given with the following program: Songs, Miss Grace Mortens Currier; violin duets, Miss Blanche Spalding and George W. Downs; recitations, Miss Marion Downs; character song, Miss Charlotte Haskell and Master Herbert Burns; song, Miss Helen Smith. Mrs. William Brown was the accompanist of the evening.

ANNUAL ELECTION

OF OFFICERS OF GREEK COMMUNITY WILL BE HELD MAY 30

The annual election of the officers of the Greek community will be held on May 30 between the hours of 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. Last night the time for the enrolling of voters expired and the list of candidates to be voted upon on election day is as follows: For president, Soteris Aiferakis and Theodoros Neukas, the present president, Harry Bousis, refusing to be a candidate again.

The candidates for directors' places are: George Alagonis, John Argiroakis, Theodoros Vounis, Konstantinos Vouliopoulos, Theodoros Giatitis, Stavros Garavelas, Louis Georgakakis, Christos Elaftherion, Evangelos Zapantis, Harry Elakopoulos, Nicholas Theodorou, Christos Kokkinos, Alexis Kefalas, Nicholas Koprissiotis, Peter Tsakiris, Christos Lambropoulos, Michael Moustakas, Stavros Mpamias, Christos Ntirois, Christos Pitsikas, George Pappas, Evangelos Pappas, and Demetrios Tsikanakis and Theodoros Harakas.

THE SILLY SEASON OPENS

The coming of the warm weather marks the time of drownings when youngsters disregard parental warnings, rush to rivers and canals and take risks that in many cases mean certain death. It is useless to caution these people against the danger. The only way to save them is to prevent them bathing in such dangerous places.

One good method is to provide a place that is less dangerous. This as yet is beyond the convenience of our city. The Shedd Park when properly developed will have a swimming pond. The time will come, too, when even school children will have an opportunity to learn to swim in the public playgrounds.

Next to the foolishness of the youngsters who cannot swim, is that of the young men who go boating and become so hilarious that they tip over and go to the bottom. If it were not for the fact that so many people, young and old, destroy their lives in one way or another we should not need nearly so many undertakers.

THE CAMPAIGN

Decidedly the funniest feature of the campaign is the effort made by certain republican papers to make the democratic situation look ridiculous. Thus far the campaign on the democratic side has been conducted with remarkable equanimity and a very laudable absence of personalities. The candidates are conducting the canvass in a most dignified manner. In fact there is not a ripple on the waters, so to speak, in comparison to the whirlpools, the counter currents, the tidal waves and we might say the icebergs bearing down upon the republican bark. Clark, Wilson, Harmon and Underwood are going along in a very dignified manner, and Bryan whom the republicans name as a compromise candidate, is well behaved and in a receptive mood. In this particular instance the democratic party shows self-respect. We have had our fights, it is true, but in this case we are too much interested in watching the scrap on the other side to start a fight on our own account. The Baltimore convention, we believe, will exercise wise judgment and name a winning candidate. The country needs deliverance from the fragments of the republican party that was.

THE NAVAL ICE PATROL

The hydrographic service of the United States has sent a scout cruiser to the Grand Banks of Newfoundland to do ice patrol duty and report daily by wireless the movements of the great ice floes. This will be a great boon to navigation as it will enable the trans-Atlantic liners to calculate with reasonable accuracy where they are likely to encounter these bergs, for the direction in which they are moving is given as well as the location at the time of observation.

This is probably the very best use to which a cruiser can be put as it may result in saving other liners from a fate similar to that of the Titanic.

Here is how the Springfield Republican puts it:

"Congress is neglected and its work lags because the country can be interested in nothing so humdrum while the great political sporting event of the nation, our quadrennial chewing and clawing match for the presidency, absorbs public attention."

Well, is it any wonder since the president of the Ananias club and the president of the United States are in a finish fight in which each has promised to knock out the other. The Johnson-Jeffries fight was not a circumstance to the present combat in which Roosevelt has entered the ring to beat Taft.

NEW RESERVATION SCHEME

The new "state reservation" with Lowell and a few other cities in the Merrimack Valley responsible for the expense, is a real novelty. Who invented this new scheme? We do not believe the municipal board understood this phase of the bill when it lent its indorsement to the movement. There is no risk of loss in the purchase if the business be done right, but Lowell being farthest away from the beach has less interest in it than the cities farther down the river.

DAMAGES FOR TITANIC VICTIMS

Congress has raked up an old bill that has been pigeonholed since 1909, the object of which is to provide facilities by which the relatives or dependents of those who lose their lives in accidents at sea, may recover from the companies responsible. The bill now before congress provides that a damage suit of this kind may be brought a year after the fatality. That measure if enacted will enable the dependents of the Titanic victims to sue for damages in the admiralty courts.

RIGHT STEP BY SOCIALISTS

The Socialists at their convention at Indianapolis disclaimed responsibility for the I. W. W. policy of "street action" which is understood to mean violence. In so doing the Socialists have shown that they are not in league with the advocates of sabotage and other methods which should have no place in the principles of any labor organization.

The third term idea is entirely dropping out of sight in the present campaign between Roosevelt and Taft, yet that is one of the fundamental reasons why Roosevelt should not be nominated.

While the battle wages, victory is still uncertain and hence it is not safe to predict just how the Roosevelt-Taft fight is coming out. Nobody knows.

Mansey is said to be the Roosevelt angel in this campaign. If he is his bank account will be a good deal less when the fight is ended.

Seen and Heard

It is reasonable to suppose that there is something the matter with a man when you find him clinging to a lamp-post, with his collar and his hat awry, looking up at the full moon, and wondering anxiously what keeps it from falling down.

The automobile driver never feels that he is as reckless as people on the sidewalk think he is.

No man who has just been awakened by the alarm clock is ever cheerful.

It may be true that there are exceptions to all rules, but it is easier to go on the theory that the rules hold good.

Another difference between a man and a woman is that when the man goes shopping he is pretty sure to spend some money.

It people generally would try as hard to behave well as they do to look well, how much better off this world would be!

A man never realizes his own insufficiency more than when he is indisposed and has to stay at home an afternoon when the Woman Suffrage club holds a meeting at the house.

A lawyer, arguing a divorce case recently, closed his address to the jury as follows:

"My client is a beautiful woman, so beautiful that the sun seems to stand still while the stars gaze at her. Truthfully, I say, beauty flies from her even as the jackrabbits from the greyhound. Sweet! Gentleman, honey would freeze in your mouth. Tender and贞德! My client could bathe in a fountain pen!"—National.

A FELLOW'S MOTHER.

"A fellow's mother," said Fred, "the wife,

"With rosy cheeks and merry blue eyes. Knows what to do if a fellow gets hurt

By a bump or bruise, or fall in the dirt.

"A fellow's mother has bags and strings,

Bags and buttons and lots of things. No matter how busy she is, she'll stop

To see how well you can spin your top.

"She does not care—not much, I mean. If a fellow's face is not quite clean; And if your trousers are torn at the knee,

She can put on a patch you'd never see!

"A fellow's mother is never mad, And only sorry, if you are bad; And I'll tell you this, if you're only true,

She'll always forgive you, whatever you do.

"A fellow's mother who would never try To keep a tear from her loving eye, And the fellow's worse who sees it not That his mother's the truest friend he's got!"

—Margaret E. Sangster.

There are a great many things to do the stillness of the midnight air, but rarely do we hear that it has been broken or even cracked by the voice of a fair young lady in eulogy of some great national character who served and saved his country. Last Thursday night, however, the midnight air was rent asunder by the high-pitched voice of a young lady at Lincoln square in Chelmsford street. She was returning from a party, in company with other ladies, and arriving at the monument she stood within the enclosure and paid glowing tribute to the memory of Lincoln. The hour was a bit unseemly, perhaps, but the young lady was very earnest about it and they do tell that she made a corking good speech.

Even the man who always uses irreproachable grammar cannot always be depended upon to say something really worth hearing.

Somebody said: "To be strong in dull and dreary duty is about the hard-

Dandruff and Every Form of Scalp Disease Cured Quick by Zemo.

It is simply wonderful how Zemo goes after dandruff. You rub a little of it in with the tips of the fingers. It gets right down into the glands, stimulates them, stops the itch, and makes the head feel fine. No, it isn't sticky! Zemo is a fine, clear, vanishing liquid. You don't have to even wash your hands after using Zemo. And what a wonder it is for eczema, rash, pimples and all skin afflictions. A 25c trial bottle at A. W. Dow & Co.'s drug store, is guaranteed to stop any skin irritation.

Zemo is prepared by E. W. Rose

When They Were Caught

at Work

NAUEN, Germany, May 21.—The example of the apaches who recently terrified Paris and its environs has been quickly followed by some criminals here. Two of them, detected last night while committing burglaries, dashed to their bicycles, which had been left outside the house. On the way they were confronted by a policeman whom they shot dead. They then rode rapidly away but pursuers fired upon and wounded one of the bandits.

His comrade then deliberately killed him to prevent his capture and possi-

hundreds of armed police and county-men until he was finally shot dead.
